Maria Marasco (standing) and Deborah Jones (sitting) are Republican candidates looking to unseat incumbent Democrats Rep. Barbara L'Italien and Sen. Sue Tucker, respectively, in Andover's state elections on Nov. 2.

CANDIDATE FORUM

Split take on paying for new senior center

Marasco, L'Italien differ on override

By Andrea Gregory

With seniors' issues leading the discussion, Andover's state Democratic legislators and their Republican challengers vied for votes on Friday at the Andover Senior Center.

The event, a "meet the candidates" breakfast at the senior center, offered little opportunity for direct debate, but did provide some insight into candidates' differences.

Marasco criticized her opponent, incumbent State Rep. Barbara L'Italien, for supporting a Proposition 2½ override in 2002 to help provide more money for the schools. The measure was approved at Town Meeting but failed at a special election. Marasco said she was against an override then, and also would have trouble supporting one in the future.

The comment highlighted a difference in philosophies between the candidates. But it also left some seniors in the crowd of about 30 questioning whether Marasco would support a new senior center in town. A center could be paid for with a debt exclusion override of Proposition 2½.

"If it is an override, I'm sorry, I would have a problem with that. I pledge to you I will help raise money," Marasco said.

Marasco was cut off when a man in the audience yelled out, "So, that's a no."

"I am comfortable with advocating for a senior center, even if it includes an override or debt exclusion," said L'Italien after the debate.

"I believe fiscal discipline must always be a top priority," she said, but she also believes government must make wise long-term decisions, and she sees the senior center as one of

Public officials, union relatives

Where does conflict of interest begin?

By Andrea Gregory

When the selectmen, School Committee and Finance Committee met behind closed doors last Monday to discuss contract negotiations, three officials with relatives in town unions were involved. Should they have removed themselves from the discussion? Officials have different answers.

The topic of the approximately 90-minute closed-door meeting was "contract negotiations," according to the selectmen's agenda. Selectman Ted Teichert, whose brother is an Andover firefighter, and School Committee members Art Barber and Dick Collins, whose wives work in the schools, stayed for the closed-door session, to which residents are not allowed.

While Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski and these three officials said this week their presence during the meeting was acceptable and appropriate, Selectmen Chairman Brian Major said it was a mistake,

Suddenly tighter inspections can close carnivals such as Westa Fiesta

By Rita Savard

After a man was thrown to his death from an amusement ride two weeks ago, state safety inspectors have been combing through Massachusetts carnivals to reinspect all rides. The push to enforce ride inspections prompted the shutdown of the Westa Fiesta last Friday, where public safety officers dissected every inch of the park.

Kids flocking to the Westa Fiesta last Friday found the mini-amusement park roped off in yellow caution tape.

State inspectors arrived at the carnival around 8 Friday morning, but by the park's scheduled opening at 5 p.m., many rides were still in the dark while teams continued testing equipment. Rather than open some rides for residents, Andover Building Inspector Kaija Gilmore ordered that the gates remain closed until all rides were inspected.

Some rides were found non-compliant during the safety checks, where inspectors lingered until 1 a.m.

Town officials said Gilmore's order to close the festival until all rides passed safety checks was justified, as the recent fatality from a faulty amusement ride provided an important lesson to live by.

Andrew Fohlin, 38, was killed Sept. 19 on the Sizzler ride when seat mounting bolts split, causing the car to fly apart at a Shrewsbury church fair.

"The town is responsible to provide a safe environment for children and their families," said Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski. "I can't stress enough how important it is to conduct regular and thorough inspections of these rides."

But the lockdown came as a surprise to Andover Youth Services, which expected the festival to be up and running on schedule. All the rides were supplied by Sam Pino, who has owned and operated amusement park machinery throughout the Northeast for nearly 20 years.

"In a normal scenario, Sam Pino said setting up on Thursday would allow enough time to have opened on Friday," said Bill Fahey, director of Andover Youth Services. "But when you throw in state inspectors, and a brand new process of inspection, it could not be done."

Indicating there have been safety-standard changes, Pino said rides now have to be 100-percent operable, whereas in the past a broken car could be closed off while the rest of a ride remained open to the public.

One of the kiddie rides at the Westa Fiesta failed inspection because it contained a European manufactured valve.

are putting the squeeze on the Massachusetts Department of Public Safety to conduct more in-depth inspections of amusement rides. Historically, the state performs regular checks on rides but have left more thorough inspections up to consultants hired by insurance companies.

"We typically try to inspect every carnival at least once a season, once a year," said Katie Ford, a spokeswoman for the state Department of Public Safety. "In the wake of the Sizzler accident, every amusement needs to be inspected again, even if it was checked two weeks ago."

Ford said inspectors are looking to make sure all parts on rides are in place as the manufacturer has directed.

"If we see a substitute part, we are not going to let that ride operate," Ford added.

There have been no changes in terms of ride regulations, just the frequency of inspections, Ford said. The regulations in

Court ruling

Promotions to sergeant upheld

Nepotism played no role in decisions

By Andrea Gregory

When Andover Police Officer Colin Radford was passed over for sergeant four years ago, he filed an appeal with the Civil Service Commission accusing the police chief of nepotism. Radford's appeal was recently denied, with the commission saying Radford was not selected because he performed poorly during his interview, and the town had sufficient reason to select other candidates.

Radford was applying for one of five sergeant positions, along with 10 other candidates, including the chief's brother.

Police Chief Brian Pattullo said Radford could further appeal the decision, taking it to Superior Court, but he does not believe Radford will do so. Radford did not return phone calls.

"This is an old appeal, and he has come a long way and is a productive member of the

Free Christian severs final UCC ties

By Rita Savard

Members of the Free Christian Church unanimously agreed on Sunday, Oct. 3, to end all affiliations with the United Church of Christ, ending a relationship spanning four decades.

Following worship last Sunday, approximately 90 parishioners voted in favor of breaking their union with 20 churches in the Merrimack Valley area affiliated with the UCC.

"Everything our church has ever stood for has been soulfully anchored in the word of God guiding our lives," said Rev. Jack Daniel, senior pastor of the Free Christian Church.

"Our feeling is that the UCC no longer holds the Bible as its source of authority."

Discussion over FCC's departure from the larger denomination began several months ago. The church's Board of Elders sent a letter to its members in August, calling for a vote. The message stated that the UCC's standpoint on issues such as same-sex marriage, partial birth abortion and the ordination of homosexual clergy "no longer reflects the wisdom and authority of the Bible."

Daniel said his congregation carefully weighed the issues place are the same as last updated in 2002.

State safety regulators are scheduled to appear on Beacon Hill today, Thursday, before the Legislature's Joint Council on Public Safety to answer questions on what many are calling a lax ride inspection system.

As crowds of kids arrived at Westa Fiesta on Friday, organizers were forced to turn away about 200 people, Fahey said. But many kept pouring in as colored lights continued flashing over some of the park's attractions that had passed inspections.

"I am responsible for the safety of the public in this town and I cannot allow the general public to walk through here until all of these rides are approved," Gilmore said. "Right now this is a construction site. Some of these machines are being erected as we speak and until they are complete they can pose a danger."

Fahey said that nothing is more important to AYS than the safety of the kids, but if the organization had known exactly what to expect, it could have been prepared to open the event on schedule.

"I want to apologize to the kids that showed up on Friday night," Fahey said. "It was hard telling them to leave and it definitely created a little chaos. But we can't prepare for things we need to if the experts don't advise us in advance."

The town manager said the scheduled opening of any carnival is dependent on how good the equipment is. In the future, he would like to see a three-tier inspection in place for events with amusement rides, involving the town, state and the supplier's insurance company. Stapczynski also said a criminal offender record check should be mandatory for all ride operators.

"Whether it takes six, or 16 hours, these rides will be safe," Stapczynski said. "I can't guarantee that a carnival can happen for three days again if the operator is not prepared. If the operator brings in top-notch equipment than an event can open in record time."

With the Friday festivities halted, AYS suffered a huge profit loss. Fahey, who has managed similar events in the past, said historically a fund raiser of Westa Fiesta's size can rake in anywhere from $8,000 to $10,000 in its first year. The carnival managed to raise about $2,000, and much of that amount will go to cover the event's costs instead of the town's youth programs.

But despite the setback, Fahey said AYS will have a solid plan in place to bring back a bigger and better Westa Fiesta next year.

Even the rain that fell on Saturday night couldn't drown the spirits of Andover kids, who, said Fahey, grabbed a couple of tents and placed them over the band to keep everyone dry.

"We don't get discouraged easily," Fahey said. "A lot of volunteers came out for the event and we're grateful for their encouragement. For us, it's really all about the kids' laughter and smiles; it's what keeps us going."

Church to form new bond before making a final decision. One of the church elders read members a quote from a news article about the UCC. The article quoted the UCC as stating it no longer sees the scriptures as the sole source of authority, Daniel said.

"The United Church of Christ is in danger of ceasing to be an exclusively Christian denomination," said Daniel. "There are many groups within the whole, some exploring pagan practices, new age ideas and goddess worship. Call it what you want, but it's not Christian."

Although Daniel supports the church's decision, he will remain a member of the UCC. The reverend abstained from voting in Sunday's election. The Free Christian Church supports the pastor's decision to keep his ties. Ordained into the UCC in 1973, Daniel has a long history serving under the organization.

"I don't agree with their practices," Daniel said. "Right now it's like a house shifting and it's in danger of losing its foundation. But I'm praying that there is still hope for them to come back fully to their Puritan roots. They (UCC) are the church of my childhood and life heritage."

Social issues in society at large have caused shifts in many houses of worship, including those in Andover. These changes are especially visible during key periods in history. The Free Christian Church held an earlier vote in 1971, when the country was torn over the Vietnam War. The congregation decided then to become independent from the national organization of the UCC, but retained bonds with a network of 20 UCC churches in the Merrimack Valley area.

Similar to the setting of the 1970s, people today are also confronting a war and dealing with a new crop of social issues, such as same-sex marriage. Organizations and individuals have parted ways as a result of different viewpoints, and each congregation in town approaches issues differently. For instance, the Unitarian Universalist congregation on Locke Street embraces same-sex marriage. This Sunday, Oct. 10, at 10:30 a.m. its Welcoming Congregation Committee will present a worship service in advance of National Coming Out Day on Monday.

For its part, the Free Christian Church parted ways with the UCC because it believes the UCC has become increasingly liberal. A UCC affiliated church in Middleton was another parish that voted to break away in September.

The Free Christian Church said it does not believe in standing alone since the church is part of the larger worldwide body of Christ. Daniel said they will look to join another denomination, more in line with their Puritan roots. Early next year, the church will decide between two larger puritanical denominations, the Conservative Congregational Christian Conference, also known as the four Cs, or the Congregational Christian Conference, the three Cs.

Currently, three churches in Andover including South Church, West Parish and Ballardvale United, have ties to the UCC, said the pastor of the South Church, Dr. Calvin Muti. Muti said his congregation has no plans of severing its relationship with UCC.

"Some parts of our church are very liberal, but we're a big family," said Muti. "There are parts of a family that prefer to express passions and convictions in different ways. We may not always agree with everything the family does, but it doesn't change the fact that they're still family, part of our roots and where we came from."

Parishioners of the South Church voted to adopt a "statement of welcome" in January that openly accepts and acknowledges gay members into the congregation. Muti said that while the UCC has been the subject of controversy throughout history — it has been the first congregation to ordain women, accept people of color and those who are openly gay — there is so much more to be gained by being part of a diverse family.

"The UCC seeks to protect and welcome everyone, particularly those who don't always feel welcome," said Muti. "I'm sorry that the Free Christian Church has left, but we still consider them sisters and brothers in Christ."

Ultimately, Rev. Daniel said, tolerance of other views is never really the heart of the issue. "If there's a climate of intolerance, everybody suffers," Daniel said. "But we will stay true to following our source of authority, that's what it comes down to."

ARRESTS

Wednesday, Sept. 29 - At 10:35 a.m., Aleksander Zagajewski, 27, of 108 Main St., Brewster, N.Y., was arrested and charged with indecent assault and battery on a child under the age of 14.

Tech student brings stolen gun to class

By Jim Patten

A 17-year-old Greater Lawrence Technical School student was suspended Monday after he was charged with bringing a stolen handgun to school.

Officials at the school on River Road discovered the unloaded .380 semi-automatic in the pants pocket of O'Brien Virola, of 46 Andover St., Lawrence. Officials found out about the gun from several students, police said.

"The administrators went down and pulled the kid out of class and took the .380 from him," said police Lt. James D. Hashem.

Virola was immediately suspended from school and criminally charged with carrying a firearm without a license, carrying a firearm on school grounds, and receiving stolen property, Hashem said.

The gun had been reported stolen out of New Hampshire but Hashem said officers are still trying to determine when and from where it was stolen.

School Superintendent Frank Vacirca refused to answer whether authorities were able to determine why Virola brought the gun to school. Vacirca said Virola has been suspended pending an expulsion hearing.

"The gun was not loaded," Vacirca said. "The discovery came through word of mouth through his peers. The counselors took charge of the situation and discovered the weapon on him."

Vacirca said this is the first case of a student bringing a gun to school this year.

department," said Pattullo.

In early 2000, Radford signed an affidavit accusing Pattullo of manipulating the sergeant appointments to work in favor of his brother, Don Pattullo. After newspapers and the public got wind of claims being made against the chief, Radford said he should not have signed the complaint with those charges. Still, Radford continued with the appeal.

Chief Pattullo said even if the test scores had been the sole deciding factor, his brother still would have received his job as a detective sergeant.

Radford's test scores placed him in the top five. However, his interview lowered his overall score. William Oullette, an officer at the time who had the third highest test score, was also bypassed. Oullette has since become a sergeant.

Ruling

The Civil Service Commission concluded that a fair interview process is a reasonable tool to use.

Lt. Richard Enos, retired state police Lt. Colonel Stephen Guilmette and Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski conducted the interviews. Each of the candidates were asked the same 14 questions by the three men.

Testimony leading to the commission's decision indicated Radford appeared highly nervous during the process, rocking in his seat.

"He was unable to focus on the question and thereby gave inappropriate, superficial or weak answers. The appellant's nervousness was so pervasive that the panel gave him a break during the interview to compose himself. Despite the break, the appellant continued to act very nervous throughout the interview and his answers and presentation continued to be of poor quality," according to testimony in the decision. "His nervous demeanor caused him to be ineffective and generally inferior in his presentation. Each panel member had a clear and specific memory of (Radford's) poor interview and each gave specific examples of (his) poor presentation."

The decision goes on to state that the candidates who were promoted to sergeant appeared composed and at ease during the interview.

The decision notes that Radford appears to have "an excellent record for police work as a police officer even under stressful circumstances while out on police patrol."

Although the ruling upheld the decision to choose other candidates, it did note flaws in the evaluation process, such as that Chief Pattullo chose the three people who conducted the interviews. The commission stated it would have been better if the chief had not had any part in setting up the interviews or the evaluation process because his brother was a candidate.

"However, his involvement here did not affect the outcome mainly due to the clearly nervous and inferior performance by (Radford) during the interview," stated the commission in the conclusion of the decision.

Radford was recently transferred to the traffic unit at his own request, said Pattullo.

According to Pattullo, if Radford wants to apply for sergeant in the future he will need to retake the exam. The next exam will be offered on Oct. 16. Pattullo did not know if Radford plans to take the exam but said, "I think he has drastically improved from his attempt in 1999."

Erik Eldracher, who will challenge Barry Finegold, told voters at the recent senior-center forum that he has never run for office before.

those. L'Italien, said she pops into the center regularly to assist seniors in filling out paperwork for prescription drug care and senior tax relief forms. L'Italien said Marasco brought up the override issue because, "Maria is a seasoned campaigner. She can't really get me on any of the reform issues."

This is Marasco's third time running for office. Erik Eldracher, of Tewksbury, who is after State Rep. Barry Finegold's seat, and Deborah Jones, who is hoping to earn Sen. Sue Tucker's position, are running for office for the first time. Statewide, 130 Republicans are running in this election, which could arm GOP legislators with the power to support a Gov. Mitt Romney veto and help balance the number of Republicans and Democrats at the Statehouse.

State Rep. race

Each of the candidates spoke to the audience, touching on issues such as prescription drug costs and the much anticipated senior center.

"I do support the expansion of the senior center," Finegold said loudly.

Applause followed his statement. Finegold also talked about nursing-home care. He said it is not always easy for people to separate the good nursing homes from the bad ones and he wants a better system in place to do so. He said he has worked on many issues that affect Andover residents and always has time to hear the concerns of the community.

"I am always willing to listen. My number is in the book," said Finegold.

His opponent, Eldracher, walked among those attending more than any other candidate, trying to connect with the crowd on a more personal level. He used his time before the seniors to show his energy and enthusiasm for the position.

"I've never run for office before. The question is if I have no political background, why am I running for office?" said Eldracher, taking the stage after Finegold. Eldracher said he believes it is time for a change in the Statehouse, and he believes he can bring about positive changes.

Eldracher said 60 percent of the budget goes to the schools but only 1 percent helps elder services. He said a the senior center's cost and the will of the people will be the deciding factors in Andover's battle to bring a new senior center to its residents.

Eldracher also said the way to bring more jobs to the Commonwealth is to address the high cost of living.

State senate

Tucker said she is a supporter of a bill designed to aid the cost of expanding or constructing senior centers in towns and cities. She said that she is hoping it will pass in time to assist Andover.

But Tucker said she is involved with more than just senior issues.

"I am fighting for jobs... Good schools are the foundation of our town, and I hope I have earned your vote for another term in the senate," she said.

Jones is hoping her life experience will win her a seat in the state senate. She used her time in front of the seniors to talk about the cost of prescription drugs. She, like several Democrats, feel seniors should be able to purchase drugs from Canada. But Jones said she believes people in office should be looking for a more direct route to solving the problem.

Jones also said she has a problem with the growing fees and cuts made to certain aspects of Andover's education curriculum.

State Rep. Barbara L'Italien is finishing her first term and facing a challenge from fellow Andover resident Maria Marasco.

350 and counting

New Andover voters ready for Nov. 2

By Rita Savard

Creating a steady flow of traffic in Town Offices, residents are making sure their voices will be heard on Nov. 2.

Since the start of September, an estimated 350 Andoverites have registered to vote in next month's presidential election, said Randy Hanson, town clerk. The count will continue to climb until the voter registration deadline next Wednesday, Oct. 13.

Signing his name to make it official, new voter Dustin Topp, 18, of Andover flashed a smile as he handed his registration card to Hanson last Friday.

"I'm pretty excited," Topp said. "I want to pick the best leaders for the country, the state and the town."

Eagerly anticipating his first election, Topp said he will give careful consideration to the performance of candidates during each televised debate. The high school student is still undecided on which candidates he will choose. "After the first (presidential) debate, I'm leaning towards (US Sen.) John Kerry but I'm not sure yet," he said. "In the end, I want a president who knows what he's doing to keep our country protected."

Arno Topp, the teenager's father, said he has always emphasized the importance of voting to his son.

"Voting is a privilege we have living in this country," Arno Topp said. "Since we have that privilege it would be a waste not to take advantage of it."

Approximately 18,800 residents are registered to vote and actively participate in town elections. According to town records, about 31,000 people currently live in Andover. Among the town's population, there are 11,255 non-voters. That figure mostly makes up children under 18, Hanson said.

Hanson said the clerk's office will be bustling with activity even after the Oct. 13 deadline, fielding residents' questions.

"At election time, people have many questions about where their polling places are, how to obtain absentee ballots if they're away and what the ballot will look like," Hanson said.

Once the clerk's office receives a Nov. 2 ballot, Hanson said she will post it on the town Web site, www.andover-ma.gov, so voters can become familiar with its design.

Hanson also encourages all new voters in town to bring valid identification with them on election day to avoid confusion at the polls.

Local at the VP debate

By Rita Savard

On Tuesday, Andover native Pamela Risseuw had a front seat to one of the country's hottest destinations: the debate between Vice President Dick Cheney and Sen. John Edwards.

The 19-year-old is a sophomore at Case Western University in Cleveland, where the debate was held, and she watched a live news feed from inside the CNN tent.

"This is such an amazing opportunity for the students here," said Risseuw, who worked on the Student Commission for the Vice Presidential Debate. "So many issues are starting to affect us, like the war in Iraq and rising college tuition. It's just incredible to see how passionate people are becoming over this election."

The political science major had a hand in bringing keynote speakers to the 'candidates' forum, helping the school prepare for its time in the national spotlight.

With between 1,500 to 2,000 journalists swarming the campus, Risseuw said anticipation for the main event grew to a fever pitch. University officials reported that there was not one empty hotel room in Cleveland.

Before the debate, the college student said she was still on the fence when it about choosing a candidate and was expecting to hear a solid plan from both men during the "Race at Case."

"These debates are so important to follow," Risseuw said. "I really hope to see the issues brought to light, instead of the typical rhetoric."

Unfortunately, Risseuw did not win tickets in the university's lottery for a seat inside the Veale Center.

"It's going to be televised everywhere here in town," Risseuw said. "There's even a jumbotron set up in one of the fields where a large crowd of students is planning to gather."

State Rep. Barry Finegold is facing a challenge from Erik Eldracher of Tewksbury.

Climbing aboard

ANDOVER KIDS WERE ABLE to enjoy two days of rides and games this weekend at the first Westa Fiesta, a re-creation of the former West Fest. But Westa Fiesta took a first night siesta on Friday, as inspectors scrambled to properly review all the rides.

Westa Fiesta is the type of event that Andover Youth Services has become known for: fun, a bit unusual and one that kids eagerly await. But Westa Fiesta was supposed to have one added benefit. It was meant to raise money for youth services programs. The closing of the carnival on Friday night regretfully killed that opportunity.

Inspectors have a tough job to do and must protect the safety of those riding amusements. That is their clear first priority. However, we hope this first year helps state and town inspectors to iron out what must be done to open Westa Fiesta safely and on time next year. Inspectors need to communicate these requirements to everyone involved. The town and its leadership should do everything it can to help this type of event succeed. During tough budgetary times in particular, any event that brings in revenue without involuntary fees should be embraced and supported.

Next year, by working together and properly planning, we trust officials can save any siesta for Sunday night. By then, Andover kids will be filled with fried dough and exhaustion from a full weekend of activities. That will be something to celebrate. The town will have put on a great event, and have raised money for further popular undertakings.

Web question

Regulating rides:

Can you ever do too much?

Last week's Andover Townsman Web-site question was: The latest five-year cancer report shows Andover is below the state average for total cancer incidents, and the state average for areas such as breast cancer that were previously seen as areas for concern. How important is this information to you?

- 21 people voted.
- 2, or 10 percent, said, "Very important. I was concerned about the high rates previously found."
- 10, or 48 percent, said, "I'll feel significantly better if and when next year's study shows the same thing."
- 8, or 38 percent, said, "I don't pay attention to studies. They contradict one another."
- 1, or 5 percent, said, "Other."

This week's Andover Townsman Web-site question is: A push to enforce the state's ride-inspection system led the town to shut down the Westa Fiesta and delay its opening for a day. Sam

Pino, area resident and owner of the amusements, said his rides undergo regular inspections. Was completely closing off the festivities on Friday the right decision?

- Yes. The building inspector was doing her job to protect the town. I feel safer now.
- Yes. Amusement parks are full of accidents waiting to happen! Carnivals should not even be allowed to operate rides once they reach a certain age and a public notice detailing inspections should be posted.
- No. While inspections are necessary, officials overreacted because of the recent press about ride problems.
- No. Westa Fiesta was so small in size, inspectors should have been able to open at least some rides on Friday night, after a day of inspections. Annual events like Clown Town have never undergone the same type of scrutiny.
- Other.

LETTERS

Bottom line: 'AYS makes things happen'

Editor, Townsman:

As Andover parents and teachers at Wood Hill Middle School we have been continually amazed by the quality of the Andover Youth Services programs and the dedication and spirit of the young people who run the organization. Bill Fahey, and his three program directors, Glen Wilson, Tony Lombardi and Suzie Clarke always seem to find a way to reach out, and to create quality programs for our children, which keep them growing and learning.

As teachers we see these directors coming to our school and working with the students nearly every day. At night, these same people are running dances and talent contests. On Saturdays and Sundays they are out again, leading mountain trips and organizing kayak and snowboard expeditions. Glenn Wilson has said 60 and 70-hour work weeks are the norm for the staff, but that all four of the directors love every minute of it.

When we think of the contributions this team has made to Andover we are awed. How many thousands of our children participated in lacrosse, Andover Youth Council, volleyball, rock climbing, youth dances, mountain biking, fashion shows, film festivals, hiking, ultimate frisbee, girls football, snowboarding, talent contests, the skateboard park, or summer expeditions all over New England? How many times have Bill, Glenn, Tony, and Suzie reached out and found troubled young people in our community and helped them re-engage in school, in sports and in their families? They do all of this with dedication and joy.

The AYS energy is spreading to our older children as well. Any parent who sent a middle-schooler to an AYS summer expedition this year will tell you about a marvelous team of counselors who welcomed, engaged and challenged their children. This didn't happen by accident. The counselors were selected, motivated, and trained by AYS.

The bottom line is that these AYS directors make things happen. Good things. It is one of the reasons we feel so lucky to live in Andover.

Experience shows best woman netted new soccer post

Editor, Townsman:

After months of reading about the girls varsity soccer coaching situation, I felt compelled to write on behalf of co-coach Meghan Lynch.

While I understand the value of loyalty (Letters, "Schools should show loyalty to dues-paying coaches," Townsman, Sept. 30), I strongly feel that the hiring process simply came down to which candidate had the best qualifications to fill the job. The list of accomplishments, in-depth knowledge and experience that Lynch brings to the soccer field is outstanding.

While serving as goalie for Boston University on a full athletic scholarship, Lynch set school records for most wins in a season, most saves in a game and most shutouts in a career. Her junior year she was named American East All Academic and received the Terrier Award for being the most valuable team member. She was elected captain her senior year and took part in the NCAA Student Athletic Mentor Leadership Conference at the University of Virginia. During the off-season she played on the Boston Renegades semi-pro soccer team and was highly sought after to coach camps for BU, Brown and Bucknell.

Her education and soccer experience continued at Bucknell, where she received her masters in education. As assistant coach for three years, she was also in charge of recruiting players from across the country.

The team won the Patriot League Title in 2001 and went on to the NCAA tournament. The coaching staff was extremely disappointed to lose her when she decided to move back to this area.

Through hard work and dedication she acquired her Advanced National Coaching License from the National Soccer Coach Association of America. This is an impressive addition to any would-be coach's resume.

Although I am sure other candidates might have put in more time as coaches in the system, in the end the AHS girls soccer team got the correct and most qualified candidate.

TAX FOCUS

Eldracher: Money in local hands

Editor, Townsman:

In my opinion, the citizens of Andover are very fortunate that Erik Eldracher has chosen to challenge Barry Finegold for a seat in the Massachusetts House. He has excellent relationships with the governor and that will be a plus for Andover citizens.

Eldracher established and ran his own business in this area and understands the challenges business folks meet each day in making payroll and trying to turn a profit.

Eldracher is committed to seeing some of the tax dollars we send to Boston returning north on Interstate 93 to the local communities, and this thought is consistent with the Romney reform plans. Eldracher wants the state income tax rolled back to 5 percent and I find that thought very appealing. High taxes are driving businesses away from Massachusetts. A lack of businesses results in high unemployment and we all find that unacceptable. This young man understands business after 10 years of running his own company.

I firmly believe my fellow citizens will benefit if they cast a vote on Nov. 2 for Eldracher.

Gre (Dikken) Jehl, 77, a longtime Andover resident, died Monday, Oct. 4 at the Sutton Hill Nursing Center in North Andover.

ALL THOSE YEARS AGO

100 Years Ago — 1904

The first drill of the new Republican campaign club was held last evening on Central Street opposite the South Church. Captain John Henderson was in command.

This evening in the Town Hall, Louis Salisbury will present a series of moving pictures of famous and current events. A young man will render several vocal selections.

The Phillips Academy football team will play the Boston YMCA team on Brother's Field tomorrow afternoon.

The grocery stores of the town resumed opening on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings but a movement is on foot to have the stores open only on Tuesday and Saturday evenings.

Representative Cole received high praise from the Lowell papers upon his speech in the congressional convention, seconding the nomination of Congressman Ames for another term.

The Andover Girls' Club held its first meeting of the year 1904-05 on Thursday evening at the Guild House. Many old members were present and a number of new girls joined. After a short business meeting, the girls danced and played games until 9 o'clock. The next meeting of the club is on Thursday Oct. 13, at 7:30 when Mr. Tough will entertain the club with phonograph selections.

The engine on the 8:21 train to Boston on Tuesday morning broke down in the local station, causing much delay and inconvenience to the passengers. After temporary repairs, the trip in was made by the use of the drivers and shaft on one side of the locomotive.

The Christ Church choir boys defeated the Cloverdales at football, the score being 10 to 5.

Every seat in George Washington Hall has been sold out for the concert to be given by Fritz Kreisler this evening. Extra chairs have been placed to the full seating capacity of the house and there is also a long waiting list.

A fire caused probably by a spark generated by the picking machine, swept through the cotton batting factory of P.W. Moody at Ballardvale yesterday afternoon, causing several thousands dollars of damage.

The trustees of Phillips Academy, at a meeting in Andover on Saturday, Sept. 21, gave their formal sanction to the plans for a new Phillips Inn, to be erected on Chapel Avenue, approximately on the site so long occupied by the Stowe House.

Among the other structures underway is the Addison Gallery of Art, of brick and limestone, to be erected on a site just south of the present Stone Chapel, with its portico on the line with that of the new Oliver Wendell Holmes Library.

On Main Street, from Memorial Hall to Wheeler Street, the candlepower has been increased from 250 to 600 watts as recommended and voted at the last Town Meeting. The old fee was $90 per year for 250 watts, and the new rate is $100, or only $10 more, for 600 watts.

The possible change in the size of the school population in the years to come is difficult to prophesy. Since 1921, grades 1 to 6, inclusive, have increased approximately 10 percent, while in the same period, grades 7 to 12 have increased 40 percent. The great probability of school age in the near future will tend to increase the school population, as the Continuation School in June 1929, had an enrollment of 35 pupils.

More than two inches of rain had fallen in the recent storm before yesterday morning, according to the records kept by the Essex Co., and several large limbs of trees came down on Wednesday in the accompanying wind.

The Stowe School was recognized as a junior high school by the State Department of Education in 1923. In the old high school organization, there were eight or nine grades in the elementary school system, and four in the high school. During the last 20 years, the junior high has come into existence.

Development of a parking lot on downtown Andover's last bit of open space began this week on Chestnut street by the Malden Co-Operative bank.

A new school policy gearing toward improving the school climate by rewarding appropriate behavior — and punishing those who don't abide by school rules and regulations — is expected to get a second pass by the School Committee this Tuesday night.

The town will probably not sue the state for the money it cost Andover to hold a holiday Monday, Town Manager Jared S. A. Clark told selectman Monday.

ON THE SCENE

Thrifty but nifty, as women's club turns 83 with fashion show

Park St. Boutique (a.k.a. downtown thrift store) provides the threads

THE OLDEST WOMEN'S CLUB in town, the Shawsheen Village Woman's Club, got its start back in 1921, when members often wore gloves and fancy hats while sipping tea at club meetings.

By the 1950s, jobs at Raytheon and Western Electric were growing and stay-at-home wives of new hires were setting up homes in Andover. These women were looking to make friends and the club offered that vital social outlet.

gloves and we played bridge. Women enjoyed it."

But today the hats and gloves are long gone, and membership is down to about 75. More women work these days and devote time to workouts rather than tea and bridge.

"We know women are too busy for the club these days," said Shea, who is now serving as club president and is a grandmother of three. "But we would love to entice some warm bodies. It really is a fun club."

So club members put a different twist on their first meeting of the season this week. These mostly white-haired ladies noticed fashion shows attracting younger women and they staged a show on Monday afternoon. Only this one didn't feature expensive clothes from a hip women's retailer in a popular local restaurant.

Instead, it was clothes from the Park Street Boutique — a.k.a. the downtown thrift store. The eight models were all club members and they strolled the makeshift runway on the third floor of Memorial

Mary Hamilton, of North Andover and formerly of Andover, couldn't resist this $15 bargain. It's a dress with a short-sleeved jacket. At right, Ethel Sherman of Andover happily hit the runway in an outfit she bought at the Park Street Boutique.

The Shawsheen Village Woman's Club fashion show also had a raffle. From left, Judy Pierce and Mary Pierce, both of Andover, check numbers with their friend Phyllis Dumart.

Hall Library wearing clothes from the thrift store.

"I just might get this," Louise Spillane said of the Brooks Brothers pleated skirt she was modeling. "The price is right."

The skirt was $8 and while Spillane hemmed and hawed, model Mary Hamilton made up her mind. She bought a one-piece purple and red dress with a matching short-sleeve jacket. It cost $15.

"Great colors for that group (the Red Hat Society) that wears the red hats," said Hamilton, a former longtime town resident who now lives in North Andover.

"Too bad I'm not a member," she laughed while adding that modeling was a good experience because it keeps her "young at heart."

It's been 10 years since the club hosted a fashion show. Mistress of ceremonies Michael Beckerman of Andover attended that one and was happy to take part in this week's revival. She is a longtime club member and a former president. Dressed in a double-breasted pin-striped navy pant suit ($12) with a fake-fur jacket ($45), she brought along a stylish navy hat from her own closet that was the perfect accessory.

After the show, there were finger sandwiches served along with plenty of desserts. As one might expect, the club served tea. Members still bring their own teacups, even bringing extras for those who don't have one (such as this reporter).

Tea-sipping may be all that's left of the club's 1921 roots. But the club's mission has survived 83 years so far. Women, no matter what age, will always enjoy a night out — or an afternoon.

Giving shelter

Teen's summer is constructive — in Romania

By Noelle Petrillo
What's Up contributor

WHILE MANY TEENAGERS SPENT their summer soaking up the sun, Andover teen James Caron was building shelters in the mountains of Romania. He was involved with a two-week mission trip with his Senior High Youth Group of Grace Chapel in Lexington.

The purpose of the mission was to build three shelters to provide refuge from the rain at the Viata Camp in the Carpathian mountains. Viata means life in Romanian and is the name of the 11-week summer camp that is run by several long-term missionaries and Romanians.

Team members learned early on the need for such shelters because the entire first week of their stay they experienced torrential downpours. The weather was so bad Romania's prime minister visited to declare a state of emergency. Even though the weather was troubling, the team successfully built three sturdy shelters. The youth group also collaborated with the Viata program youth camp, a Christian camp that is run on the mountain and participates in environmental tasks.

Romania is one of three mission trips James has completed. He has also traveled and served in Mexico and Trinidad. "I enjoy mission trips because I feel that by doing them I am serving God. By helping people in need, I feel that I am doing a good deed," said James. The youth group stayed in what is called the Jiu valley in the mountains, which is the poorest part of Romania.

During the era of Communism, the valley was built up for mining due to the substantial amount of minerals there. There were 100,000 miners who were brought in to work. When Communism ended, most of the people moved out, abandoning the area. Now, there is a 60 percent unemployment rate and people who do work make around $50 a month, said James.

When asked what the most rewarding part of his experience was, James replied, "Working with the native kids was amazing. We had one Friday night called 'cultural exchange' where the natives cooked us a Romanian meal and shared with us the history of their culture. We also performed a skit for the children and they really enjoyed it. It was very impressive because the kids made a great effort to speak English and communicate with us throughout the stay. The food they gave us probably cost a parent a month of their wage to give us, which was a great sacrifice," said James.

The food in Romania was also quite an adjustment for the team. "For breakfast one day we had potatoes, scrambled eggs and olives all mixed together. It was pretty bad. They give you a lot of corn and processed meats. Some of the native food was good, like doma, which is stuffed cabbage," James said.

The youth group spent its nights in an actual ski lodge. James said living conditions were better in Romania than other countries he had served in. "It wasn't bad. Actually, it was spacious and comfortable. On past mission trips we stayed in warehouses with over 200 people crammed in together."

The team had been scheduled to serve the second week of its stay at a local orphanage, but that was canceled because the orphanage coordinator needed emergency surgery. As a result, James and his group

"It is a very rewarding experience and you get to understand new cultures."

ANDOVER TEEN JAMES CARON

spent the full two weeks working at the camp. The youth group worked for two days with a native organization called Kaizen, which helped them build shelters.

James shows no slowing down when it comes to serving in the future. He plans to continue participating in these mission trips and encouraging others to do so as well. "It is a very rewarding experience and you get to understand new cultures. It's a lot of work but it's something meaningful to do over the summer. It really makes a difference in other people's lives even in ways you wouldn't realize. My lasting impressions were the children of Romania and their appreciation for having us be there to help them. We had an impact on their lives just by being there," said James.

All kidding aside...

McKains are blue-ribbon goat-raisers

LAST THURSDAY AFTERNOON, the McKain family of Andover was loading up the car for a weekend getaway. So they packed clothes, toothbrushes — and seven goats.

Elle, Kara, Nina, Annah, Blackie, Lanna and Venece appeared anxious to get to the Big E fair in Springfield for the chance to strut their stuff in the big leagues, as far as goat competitions go. The herd was made up of prize-winning goats that love the lime light, according to their owners.

"They love attention just like a dog. They are our pets," said Jennie McKain, 18.

Jennie and her younger siblings, Emelie, 15, and Joseph, 13, have been around goats for as long as they can remember. They had each picked out their best goats to take to the competition and all came back ribbon winners in various categories.

"It's kind of like a beauty contest. There is basically the ideal goat, and you are trying to make your goat look as close to that as possible," said Jennie.

Emelie said accompanying her goats to different fairs has been a lot of fun. She enjoys meeting other goat-raisers her own age and loves being around the animals, she said. She and her sister say belonging to organizations such as 4-H has really helped shape their perceptions on life.

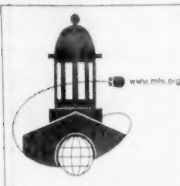

What would life be like without goats? The McKain kids really cannot answer that question.

"Our family has had goats for 23 years," said Jennie. "We were born into it."

LIVING OFF THE LAND: SHAKER HISTORY, TRADITIONS AND COOKING
Jayson Andrews, interpreter
Canterbury Shaker Village, N.H.

Canterbury Shaker Village, founded in 1792, was the sixth of 19 Shaker communities. The Shakers sought to live as independent from the outside world as possible. Using materials that were of little to no cost to them, they created industries that could help to support their lifestyle. They made their living from farming, selling seeds and herbs, manufacturing medicines and marketing their crafts. Agriculture became an important component of the Shaker economy.

The Canterbury Shaker apple orchards were famous for the size of their yield and the excellent quality of their fruit. The top-grade apples were used to make applesauce and pies throughout the year. This applesauce was sold to the public for more than 50 years. The sale of apples was part of the Shakers' livelihood in the early days of the Canterbury community.

Learn how the common apple became a staple of the Shaker diet and how early methods of preserving them were vital to the Shakers livelihood and well-being, both physically and economically. Shaker-style applesauce will be prepared and samples served during the presentation.

GHOST STORIES OF NEW ENGLAND
with Dan Tremblay

Creaking boards and screeching hinges and windows that rattle in the night... are the noises that fill antique buildings only the sounds of an old structure settling?

Or are they the sounds of a spectre that inhabits them? Can it be true that long dead souls haunt old structures after life has passed?

The program presenter, Dan Tremblay, has never seen a ghost, but he has spoken to people who say they have seen them, and he has visited Essex County sites where haunted happenings are said to have occurred. His findings have been put together in a video account that he will present on the 27th.

Andona Society to roll out 'Red Carpet'

Working on the Andona Society's Nov. 6 event are Andover residents (from left around the table): Anna Kennefick, Leslie Burte, Christine Weiner, Lisa Bradshaw, Bettina Indaco, Carol Lowenstein and Gina McCullough.

"An Evening on the Red Carpet," hosted by the Andona Society, will be held at Andover Country Club on Saturday, Nov. 6, beginning at 7 p.m. with lights... camera... and a "walk of fame" planned, and concluding at midnight.

Andona members invite residents to join in the fun of this Hollywood-style evening by digging out their glitziest evening attire.

The evening will feature the sights and sounds of musical talent Cricket, a local band organizers say is "sure to offer a fantastic beat for painting the town red with family and friends. So save the date, and plan to purchase tickets at $165 per couple, or $85 per person."

Proceeds from this annual charity fundraiser directly benefit various Andover youth academic, athletic and cultural programs. Some programs sponsored this year include Andover Youth Services, All Town Cultural Enrichment, Andover High School Clubs Committee, Andover Stars Soccer, and Destination Imagination.

For more information on the event particulars, or to purchase tickets, contact Dottie Gorrie at 978-475-3011, or Carla Byrne at 978-474-0293.

The Andona Society is a volunteer, non-profit organization that has raised funds for Andover Youth since 1952. For more on the Andona Society, visit www.andonasociety.org.

Trying to restore the luster

Some of the uniforms of AHS Marching Band members are as old as they are

Students at Northern Essex Community College were recognized in May at the college's Math Award Ceremony.

The students were given certificates for recognition of superior work in math. Andover students receiving the award include Cynthia Baggeroer, college algebra and trigonometry; and Carrie Kropiwnicki, college algebra.

At Clark University in Worcester, David S. Rainen of Andover was named to first honors on the dean's list. This selection marks outstanding academic achievement during the spring 2004 semester.

Rainen is a member of Clark's class of 2005 who studies psychology. He attended Andover High School.

Thomas D. Valteau of Andover, a member of Clark's class of 2007, was named to second honors on the dean's list. To be eligible for second honors, students must have a GPA of 3.5 or higher.

Valteau also attended Andover High School.

The following residents were among the new students who have enrolled at Syracuse University in Syracuse, N.Y., for the 2004-05 academic year.

WHEN THEY ARE drumming up school spirit, members of the Andover High School Golden Warriors Marching Band can't wear down — whether they are marching under a beating sun, pouring rain or falling snow. But their gear is a different story.

Following 14 years of use, the band's signature black and white uniforms are the same age as some of the students who wear them. The wool-blend suits are slowly coming apart at the seams, thanks to frequent cleanings and

The AHS Marching Band, 1986-87

"Tromping through muddy football fields, alternating (between) sweating or freezing during parades, and the countless times hems have been readjusted over the years definitely starts taking a toll," says Virginia Irvine, co-president of the band. "The uniforms don't look bad from a distance but, up close, it isn't pretty."

Once a bright white, the military-style jackets show tinges of gray at close range. The inside lining on many is ripped and torn. Worn zippers, which take two people to maneuver, often get stuck. Buttons that used to shine gold are tarnished, misshapen and, in many cases, missing. The adhesive that binds a blue and yellow sash has lost its tack, causing the piece to fall off during performances. And feather plumes, yellowed over time, droop lifelessly.

Band supporters realize it is both impractical and impossible for new uniforms to be included in the school's budget right now, given the amount of money that has been cut from education expenses over the years. "If we're laying off teachers, we really can't justify spending school money on uniforms," Irvine says. "But the truth is that the kids need them."

So, during the past year, band members have been trying to rally support to purchase new gear by holding several fund-raising events.

On Saturday, the band set up a booth at Andover Youth Service's Westa Fiesta carnival to hold a bottle drive. The team handled 20,775 cans and bottles over the course of the weekend, bringing in $1,039.

Donations have trickled in from parents and some local merchants, as well as the family of Margaret Doherty.

Doherty's brother, William, whose namesake is etched in stone at the Doherty Middle School, originally supported the high school's first all-girl band in the late-1930s.

But donations from generous contributors, along with the band's efforts, have managed to raise only half of the approximately $21,000 the band needs for 65 uniforms. The cost for the jacket and pants alone is approximately $350. There are currently 40 musicians in the band. According to Irvine, the extra uniforms are a necessity to ensure that the new suits remain in good condition for years to come.

Just as the band population grows, so do the players themselves. High school students often go through growth spurts over the course of a year, even shedding a waist size.

Darren McRoy, 17, has been a member of the Golden Warriors Marching Band for four years. During that time, the trumpet player says he has grown about four inches.

"Pieces are always falling off," McRoy says, demonstrating a worn Velcro adhesive, battered buttons, and pants that have been hemmed "too many times."

"The fact that we have wearable uniforms after 14 years speaks volumes for the kids and

BOOK REVIEW

Hatchet

BY GARY PAULSEN

Reviewed by John Chartier and James Caron

This week, 15-year-old Andover residents John and James review a book for young readers who empowering adventure and survival novels.

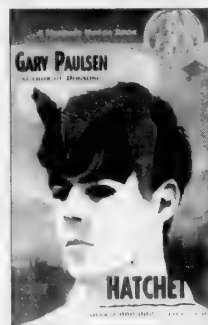

Imagine a friend winning an all-expenses paid trip to Walt Disney World. He boards the airplane, but once he is in the air, the small plane carrying him crashes in the wilderness, leaving him stranded and at a loss for food, water and shelter. Can he survive? This type of story of survival is the premise of one of the greatest adventure books for young adults, Hatchet, by Gary Paulsen.

Brian Robeson is a boy from New York who is quite used to city life. When his small plane crashes deep in the wilderness of Canada, Brian must learn to live off the land. Hatchet tells the harrowing tale of Brian in breath-stopping detail, from his struggle to start his first campfire, to a nerve-tingling ordeal with a monstrous moose. Only time will tell if Brian will survive his dilemma, but one thing is for sure: he will emerge with a newfound respect for the smallest things in everyday life that so many others take for granted.

Hatchet by Gary Paulsen is a great tale about an ordinary boy who is thrown into an unusual situation. Paulsen is an author who has the ability to captivate readers for chapters, surrounding them in the environment in which his books are set.

Hatchet is actually a series of books that details the ongoing adventures of Brian Robeson as the character gets older. Our favorite is Hatchet, for the same reason many people always like the first book in a series; because the reader gets introduced to the characters and the settings for the first time. This creates a kind of excitement that can only be generated from meeting new people and seeing new places.

We give Hatchet by Gary Paulsen a strong 9 out of 10. Paulsen is a masterful author whose work is fresh and new in every book he pens. We strongly recommend that people read his other books if they enjoy Hatchet.

So be sure to make your way through the wilderness to find this adventure novel — and feel free to beat back any grizzly bears with your very own copy of Hatchet by Gary Paulsen.

The Providence College students worked on the portion of the popular bike path that runs along the Providence River and at three points along the Woonasquatucket River - Olneyville Square, Donigian Park, and parallel to Promenade Street - clearing litter, trash and other debris along the bike trail, river banks, and surrounding areas. The river clean-up was conducted in conjunction with the Narragansett Bay Commission.

Keil is a fourth-year student whose major field of study is general studies. He is one of 28 Springfield College upper-class students who camped with 50 of the college's incoming first-year students.

Keil helped conduct a number of activities at the East Campus, which is equipped with outdoor sleeping facilities.

hiking trails, picnicking areas, fields and a waterfront. The event is designed to help first-year students meet classmates, feel comfortable and gain a sense of self before getting into the rigor of college life. It is an option that precedes new student orientation, a four-day program for incoming first-year and transfer students to familiarize them with many aspects of college life and Springfield College traditions, and to help them become acquainted with new classmates.

A right to vote

The race is on for the White House. This fall, American voters select the leader for our nation. Every four years, citizens over the age of 18 vote for our president. However, it has not always been that way.

From colonial times through the American Revolution (1787), only white men who owned property voted. In the 1820s, people called for a vote by all white men. Voting came to be seen as a political right of citizenship.

African-American men gained the right to vote with the 15th Amendment in 1870. However few actually voted until after the Civil Rights movement of the 1960s.

Women won the right to vote through the 19th Amendment in 1920.

The 26th Amendment, passed in 1971, gave the right to vote to anyone over the age of 18. Before that, the voting age was generally 21.

In 1941, millions of men too young to vote were sent to fight in World War II. "Old enough to fight, old enough to vote" became a slogan.

The issue gained strength in the 1960s during the Vietnam War. In 1969, Congress voted down resolutions to lower the voting age. In 1970, U.S. President Richard Nixon gave his support. Congress lowered the voting age to 18 in federal and state elections.

President Nixon signed the bill. However, he feared that it might be unconstitutional. The U.S. Supreme Court decided that Congress could give 18-year-olds a national vote, but that states set voting qualifications in state and local elections.

Congress passed the 26th Amendment in March 1971 to solve the problem. The Amendment lowered the voting age to 18 in all elections. In June, Ohio became the 38th state to ratify the amendment, making it law. That was the fastest ratification of any constitutional amendment in U.S. history.

parents who have cared for, mended and made do over time," says Irvine. "But there's only so many times that zippers can be replaced, buttons moved and pants hemmed."

The band's goal is to have enough money by May to purchase an updated costume for their annual appearance in the Memorial Day parade.

The proposed new look showcases Andover High's colors, blue and gold, in a bolder pattern, on material that is more comfortable and durable, says Irvine.

The progress to replace the well-worn clothing has been steady but slow and supporters need to raise another $10,000 by spring.

Band members say they plan to march forward, conducting bottle drives and fund-raisers to meet their challenge.

"The marching band, over the years, has undergone a real growth in size and in pride," says Joe Wright, band director. "I'm excited to have their look match their poise and effort."

Besides conjuring school spirit at home, the Warriors represent Andover throughout the year during away games, parades and band competitions.

Wright hopes that eventually the uniforms will look as good as the band's attitude.

"Just imagine what you have, if anything, in your closet that's 14 years old," Wright asks. "Now imagine having a different kid wearing it out in the rain each year, at least a dozen times. How do you think it would hold up?"

AHS FOOTBALL

After a 25-21 win, the Warriors (3-0) take aim at Billerica

By Rick Harrison

THE NEXT TWO WEEKENDS will be crucial for the undefeated Andover High varsity football team in its quest for the Merrimack Valley Conference title and the school's first Super Bowl berth since 1975.

The Golden Warriors, whose third and final non-league game of 2004 resulted in an impressive 25-21 come-from-behind victory over Malden Catholic, are about to battle two of the best teams in the conference back-to-back at Lovely Field.

Tomorrow night (Friday) Billerica comes to town and next Friday the opponent will be Lowell (7 p.m. kickoff).

Billerica currently shares the MVC top spot with Chelmsford at 2-0, while overall the Indians are 3-1 with the only loss to Division 1 power Marshfield, 27-15.

BMHS is fresh off a 30-0 thrashing of Tewksbury — the same team Andover handled 30-6 one week earlier.

Head coach Peter Flynn's crew also owns wins over non-league Burlington, 6-0, and MVC rival Central Catholic, 21-13.

AHS handled the Tewksbury passing combo of Tyler Michalewicz and Doug Heald well, and tomorrow they will face another hot aerial tandem in Billerica quarterback Dan McWilliams and top receiver Greg Abelli.

The duo has clicked for five touchdown passes in the last three games, while Abelli has six TDs overall for a team-high 36 points.

The Indians' defense, which has pitched two shutouts already, is led by end James McCluskey (6'3", 238 pounds) who is being touted as a Division 1 college prospect.

When Billerica runs the ball it is usually in the hands of Sean Souza, who scored the winning TD versus Burlington, or sophomore Gary McKay.

The Indians beat AHS 21-7 last fall while Andover prevailed 19-14 in 2002. BMHS has won four of the last five and 9 of 11 against the Golden Warriors, while since 1980 the series stands even at 12-12.

AHS is the only one of the nine MVC teams still undefeated overall, including non-leaguers, and this is the first time since 1998 that Andover is off to a 4-0 start.

The locals won their first six games that season and finished 8-2 overall.

Impressive comeback

The Malden Catholic game was a character builder, as Andover overcame a 21-13 fourth quarter deficit with a pair of touchdowns in the final nine minutes to overhaul its first-time opponent.

This happened after AHS had grabbed a 13-0 first-quarter lead, only to lose it as a rash of turnovers helped MC to a 14-13 halftime advantage.

The fourth-quarter comeback was sparked by veteran QB Geoff Stevens, who threw an 18-yard TD pass to Buddy Farnham early in the stanza and scored the game-winning TD on a one-yard plunge with less than three minutes to play.

The final seven-play march featured three pass completions to Farnham totaling 47 yards.

Although intercepted twice, Red Zone Player of the Week nominee Stevens had his most productive passing night of the season after hitting 11-of-15 for 197 yards.

"Geoff's outstanding leadership and accurate passing was key to the win," said AHS head coach Ken Maglio. "He stayed in the pocket, showing excellent poise, and ran when needed (14 carries)."

Favorite target Farnham caught eight passes for 150 yards. In four games Stevens has completed 27-of-54 passes (50 percent) for 509 yards, while the elusive Farnham has caught 18 for 437 yards.

Shaheen Ghandchi and Matt Hennessy scored the opening two touchdowns for Andover on runs of 18 and two yards in the first quarter.

Awesome display

"We played on another beautiful new field (North Andover in season opener) on another great night for football," said coach Maglio.

"We came out strong and took the 13-0 lead, and were on our way to another score when we got careless with the football."

"We ended up with five turnovers in the first half — but managed to get to the locker room down by only one point."

"Our kids showed what they're all about in the second half," continued Maglio. "They put on an awesome display of offense in the fourth quarter, with everyone coming up big when we needed them."

"The defense also made some big stops to keep Malden Catholic off the board."

AHS ROUNDUP

Facing challenges

Girls swim, field-hockey teams prevail over their rivals

By Rick Harrison

It was showdown time for three Andover High fall varsity sports teams, two of which came away victorious while the other suffered an agonizing defeat.

The AHS girls swim and dive squad expected to be challenged by likewise-undefeated non-league rival Acton-Boxboro, but instead the Lady Warriors annihilated the Colonials, 117-69, in their most lopsided triumph in years.

The field hockey team battled unbeaten Merrimack Valley Conference co-leader Methuen, handing the Rangers their first loss and taking undisputed possession of first place with a 1-0 victory in Methuen.

In a collision of unbeaten girls volleyball teams, Andover won the first game and led late in the third before dropping a frustrating 2-1 decision to Merrimack Valley Conference Division 1 archrival Chelmsford.

The undefeated and regionally-ranked AHS girls varsity soccer team, which climbed as high as No. 23 in the national high school polls last year, is currently listed No. 7 in New England.

The Lady Warriors are the lone Eastern Massachusetts school ranked by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America (NSCAA), while the only other Bay State school to make the grade is Western Massachusetts power Springfield Cathedral.

"The polls are whatever you want to make of them," said AHS co-head coach Dick Loschi. "They make for interesting discussion and it's another way to help motivate the players."

Capt. Jackie Powers, with 14 goals and six assists for 20 points, and Emily Pallotta with eight goals and 11 assists, are among the top 10 scorers in Eastern Mass.

BOYS SOCCER

Sophomore forward Nate Baker produced the first hat trick of the season for the Andover High boys varsity soccer team in a 5-1 triumph over Merrimack Valley Conference rival Tewksbury on Tuesday.

That win came after the Golden Warriors launched a busy five-games-in-eight-days stretch by whitewashing Merrimack Valley Conference rival Haverhill, 3-0, battling to a 2-2 tie with Ipswich in the makeup of a rained-out non-leaguer and nipping Central Catholic, 1-0, in an MVC makeup.

The results left AHS at 6-1-2 overall, 4-1-1 in MVC I play and stretched the locals' unbeaten streak through five games (4-0-1).

Schedule

The Golden Warriors host Methuen this afternoon (Thursday) at 3:30 p.m., and the annual ASA Uniform Night game is Saturday against powerhouse non-league rival St. John's Prep of Danvers (7 p.m.).

The rained-out game at Billerica was rescheduled for Oct. 28.

Uniform Night

Andover High School Soccer Boosters is sponsoring an ASA Uniform Night this season and encourages young ASA players to come watch the high school soccer teams compete.

Any Andover youth soccer player wearing his/her team jersey will be admitted to the game at no charge when accompanied by a parent or a coach.

The 2004 ASA Uniform games are this Saturday when the AHS varsity girls host Notre Dame Academy-Hingham at 5 p.m., and the varsity boys host St. John's Prep at 7 p.m. at Lovely Field.

Andover 3 Haverhill 0

Returning to action for the first time in a week, the Golden Warriors continued their multi-pronged attack with three goalscorers and setups from three other players in the game at Lovely Field.

Goalkeepers Mike Canepa (first half, six saves) and Chris Cole (second half, five saves) also combined for the first shutout of the season after five straight games allowing one goal in each.

Senior midfielder Vasilis Kostakis volleyed in Joe Savoca's crossing pass to the far post to give the locals a 1-0 edge midway through the first half.

It stayed that way until junior middle Jason Sheldon converted a Greg Famiglietti setup 10 minutes into the second half.

Sophomore Nate Baker added a final insurance goal with 15 minutes left in the game.

"It was a very athletic play by Nate, who beat a Haverhill defender but was knocked off balance," said AHS head coach Mike Wartman. "He recovered and shot past their out-of-position keeper."

Cited for strong play against the youthful visitors were midfielders Mike Baldwin, Pierre Hage and Famiglietti.

Chris Cole, Andover goalkeeper, plucks the ball out of the air after a corner kick by a Haverhill player.

Andover 2 Ipswich 2

The locals led this one 2-0 late in the first half before Cape Ann League member Ipswich battled back for the tie.

It was the first time in seven games AHS surrendered more than one goal.

Junior forward Joe Savoca gave the Golden Warriors a 1-0 lead 15 minutes in when he converted a crossing pass by junior midfielder Jason Sheldon.

Sheldon pumped home a rebound during the 35th minute to provide a two-goal cushion.

Ipswich got on the board with three minutes left in the half, scoring on a free kick, and the tying goal was netted 10 minutes into the second half.

"We controlled the play, especially in the second half," said coach Wartman. "We crossed the ball well and did a good job working it out of the defensive end."

Chris Cole played most of the first half in net, making three saves before being taken out after a collision. He was shaken up on the play but not seriously hurt.

Mike Canepa finished up and made two saves during his 45-minute stint.

Playing well in the field for AHS were stopper Andy Boudreau, defenders Brendan O'Connell and Steve Twomey, midfielders Sheldon and Greg Famiglietti.

Andover 1 Central Catholic 0

Vasilis Kostakis scored the game's only goal with four minutes left in the first half, depositing a rebound from six yards out after a shot by Joe Savoca caromed off the crossbar.

AHS goalkeeper Mike Canepa made 13 saves on the way to his first solo shutout and the team's second whitewash of the season.

Coach Wartman lauded the play of midfielders Kostakis and Greg Spurr, along with defender Brendan O'Connell.

"In addition to scoring the goal, Vasilis passed the ball well and did an excellent job of setting up our wing players for scoring opportunities," said Wartman.

Central Catholic was the scheduled home team, but because the Raiders' home field is under construction the game was played at Wood Hill Middle School in Andover.

Andover 5 Tewksbury 1

The Golden Warriors didn't break the Tuesday game open until the second half, after inching ahead 1-0 on the first of Nate Baker's three goals midway through the opening period.

The floodgates opened for Andover's biggest offensive output of the season early in the final half, as Joe Savoca and Greg Famiglietti connected two minutes apart.

Famiglietti, who assisted on Savoca's goal, deflected in a perfect crossing pass to the far post from Vasilis Kostakis.

Jeff Fredrickson put Tewksbury on the board to make it 3-1, setting the stage for Baker's last two goals six minutes apart with less than 10 minutes to play.

Dave Checrallah earned his second assist of the game, while Baker's team-high sixth goal was unaided as he dribbled in from midfield and slammed a 15-yard shot into the net.

Keeper Chris Cole played the entire game and made 11 saves.

"Everyone played and it was nice to spread the time around," said coach Wartman.

GIRLS SOCCER

The Andover High girls varsity soccer team remained undefeated, improving to 7-0 with a 5-0 whitewash of Tewksbury on Tuesday which followed back-to-back 7-0 Merrimack Valley Conference romps over Haverhill and Lowell.

The Lady Warriors have scored 38 goals in seven games, a hefty 5.4 average, and own an overall 38-4 scoring edge on the opposition.

Goalkeepers Micaela Smith and Cara Bularzik have combined for four straight shutouts, and they have not allowed a goal for 367 consecutive minutes.

"We don't seem to be having any problems scoring," said first-year co-head coach Meghan Lynch. "Everything is falling into place nicely."

"Everyone is blending in and playing well. We haven't skipped a beat even though we've been forced to switch people around because of injuries and illness."

"We've been able to get everybody into the games. Pallotta and Powers are among the top scorers in the state — but we've had a lot of other people contributing to the offense (eight goalscorers)."

"Rikki Sartor scored a couple of goals in a game and Michelle Pirro has been playing awesome," said Lynch.

"Saturday is a big game for us (Notre Dame Academy-Hingham). It will be a good test and should help determine where we stand with some of the other strong teams statewide."

Schedule

The locals host Dracut tonight (Thursday) under the lights at Lovely Field (7 p.m.), and host perennial power Notre Dame Academy-Hingham in the annual ASA Uniform Night contest on Saturday (5 p.m.).

The rained-out non-leaguer against Danvers High has been rescheduled for next Monday, Columbus Day, at Danvers (4 p.m.).

Injuries

Senior defenders Maggie Lamond and Leslie Willey are both sidelined with ankle injuries.

visiting Lady Warriors totally dominated the rain-soaked night game under the lights at Haverhill Stadium.

Powers scored the only goal necessary 13:11 into the game, assist to Jen Hagopian, and the pair reversed roles just 46 seconds later (13:57) for a 2-0 lead.

"Jackie made a gorgeous right-to-left wing pass and Jen hit a dynamite shot inside the far post," said Loschi.

Powers completed her second hat trick of the season, and fourth of her AHS career, with rapid-fire goals 20 seconds apart at 26:28 and 26:48.

The two goals were mirror images, with sophomore forward Rachel Fox playing through balls to Powers who broke in alone and deked the keeper before taking the shot.

"Haverhill tried to push the defense up and trap us into offside," said Loschi. "So we kept playing the ball through or over the top to create scoring opportunities."

Powers wrapped up her prolific night at 4:58 of the second half, the assist to junior midfielder Emily Pallotta, and Pallotta made it 6-0 at 6:40 when she lifted a shot over the Hillie keeper's head into the net.

Brittany Moriarty intercepted a pass and fed the setup pass to Pallotta.

Courtney Dynes' first goal of the season at 30:30 came when she drove a hard shot that went through the keeper's hands.

Cara Sullo chalked up the assist after she went to the right corner and passed towards the net. Dynes raced in from midfield and ran onto the ball.

Andover keepers Micaela Smith (50 minutes) and Cara Bularzik (30 minutes) combined for their second consecutive shutout.

The Lady Warrior coaches lauded the play of Fox, both at midfield and on defense, Michelle Pirro at midfield and junior Maria Nasta at forward and midfield.

Less than 24 hours after routing Haverhill, the Lady Warriors duplicated the feat against Lowell at Lovely Field in the makeup of a game rained out three days earlier.

The first half featured a pair of goals from both Emily Pallotta and Rikki Sartor as AHS grabbed a commanding 4-0 lead.

Pallotta connected just 1:03 into the contest, working her way down the middle of the field before laying the ball off to Michelle Pirro. Pallotta soon received a return pass and deposited a shot behind Lowell keeper Meghan Keegan.

Pallotta scored again at 14:10, assist to Jen Hagopian, and then Sartor produced her two less than three minutes apart at 20:40 and 23:10.

Brittany Moriarty set up Sartor's first tally, while the second came as she redirected a long shot by freshman midfielder Katelyn Caro.

Caro's blast was going wide of the net when Sartor jumped up, lifted her leg waist high and tipped the ball home.

After the break Hagopian converted a Jackie Powers pass at 14:12. Moriarty scored from Courtney Dynes at 21:00 and Pirro produced an unassisted goal at 25:06.

Senior defender Leslie Willey preserved the shutout in the final three minutes, clearing the ball off the goal-line after it slipped behind the keeper and almost rolled into the net.

Keepers Micaela Smith (50 minutes, two saves) and Cara Bularzik (30 minutes, three saves) extended the shutout streak to three straight games.

Keegan made 11 saves for the Red Raiders as Andover outshot Lowell, 18-5.

"We were very aggressive from the start," said coach Loschi. "We did plenty of substituting and a lot of players contributed."

"We dominated play, bottled Lowell up and took advantage of our opportunities. Our goals were the result of hard work."

Emily Pallotta gave the high-scoring locals a 1-0 lead 9:10 into the game, taking a Jackie Powers pass in the box before turning left and firing a shot to the far corner.

Maria Nasta made it 2-0 in the 33rd minute, as Pallotta went deep into the right corner and sent a crossing pass in front. Nasta took the ball out of the air and volleyed it into the net.

Michelle Pirro connected at 5:55 of the second half, after Pallotta moved down the middle and passed the ball right for a low shot by Pirro.

Jackie Powers followed with her 13th and 14th goals five minutes apart to cap the attack.

Jen Hagopian set up the first tally, tapping the ball ahead to start a Powers' breakthrough capped by a shot to the bottom left corner of the net.

Nasta set up the final goal with a pass from the right corner to Powers, who turned left and drilled a quick shot.

"Tewksbury played a strong first half," said Loschi. "They tried to mark both Powers and Pallotta, but soon found out the two of them are too quick."

Capt. Micaela Smith played the first 65 minutes and Cara Bularzik the final 15, both making three saves while recording their fourth consecutive shutout.

Playing well were senior defender Kayla Parker and junior outside midfielder Marissa Evans, who replaced Maura Daniels (ill) and Leslie Willey (ankle injury).

GIRLS SWIM
& DIVE

The Andover High girls swim and dive team made a shambles of its heralded showdown with non-league host Acton-Boxboro, beating the Colonials (6-1) by 48 points, 117-69.

The locals then returned to Merrimack Valley Conference activity and dive team made a shambles of its heralded showdown with non-league host Acton-Boxboro, beating the Colonials (6-1) by 48 points, 117-69.

The three triumphs boosted the best team in Massachusetts to 6-0 this fall, and stretched the multi-year win streak through 68 consecutive dual meets.

"This is such a different team," said AHS head coach Marilyn Fitzgerald. "I can't compare it to any other."

"We have the two untouchables, Caitlin Doherty and Candice Peak, but nowhere near the overall number of unbeatable swimmers like our teams the past six years."

"The depth of this group is unique and so many freshmen are making noise," said Fitzgerald. "The times being turned in make it possible to do all kinds of experimenting with new combinations in the relays and every other event."

"Our showdown with Chelmsford at the end of the dual-meet season (Oct. 29, away) is shaping up as a very interesting matchup."

"Come sectional and state meet time Chelmsford and Notre Dame of Hingham could be the top challengers," added Fitzgerald.

Schedule

The Lady Warriors host Notre Dame Academy of Tyngsboro tomorrow afternoon (Friday), and next Tuesday they host Dracut with both meets scheduled for 3:30 p.m. at the Greater Lawrence Vo-Tech pool.

New alignment

Last week it was announced the State Meet will have two divisions for the first time.

School placement will be determined by enrollment and possibly points scored in recent State Meets.

Andover will definitely compete in Division 1.

The new format led to a revamping of State Meet qualification times and points – enabling several more Andover swimmers and divers to make the grade.

There was definite satisfaction attached to this victory, as the Lady Warriors sent a loud message by swamping the team some consider the top challenger for the state championship.

A-B dominated Bay State girls swimming for many years before Andover began its current run – and the Colonials were hoping to give AHS a run for its money this season.

"I'm loading the lineup in the Acton-Boxboro meet," said coach Fitzgerald before the blowout. "Some people are doubting us this year because of all the talented swimmers we graduated."

"A-B is solid and the meet will give us a chance to make a statement. We're going to experiment with a few new combinations, particularly in the relays, and really try to accomplish something," said Fitzgerald.

What the locals accomplished was to demoralize every other Division 1 team in the state, relegating them all to a projected battle for the No. 2 spot in the big November meets.

"Acton swam below par and their kids seemed a little nervous," said coach Fitzgerald, whose team arrived a half-hour late after bus problems.

"When we got there the stands were full and we had more parents than A-B did at their own pool."

"That's the loudest building in New England – and when the people are cheering the noise level is close to what you hear at a state meet," said Fitzgerald.

"Our parents did more yelling than the swimmers. They were our unsung heroes – and a major reason we swam so well. You can't beat support like that!"

Andover placed first in 10 of the 12 events and had double individual wins from Caitlin Doherty, Candice Peak and Diana Harlow.

Doherty and Peak were also members of two victorious relays.

Harlow captured first in the 200 IM, with a state-cut 2:14.30 time, and the 100 backstroke with a 1:02.95.

She also joined Doherty, Peak and Jen Geary on the victorious 400 free relay (3:51.79).

Harlow's effort came even though she was nursing a severe ankle strain suffered in a fall at home last week.

Doherty delivered winning performances in the 200 free (1:59.28) and 100 butterfly (state-cut 59.90), while Peak touched first in the 50 free (state-cut 25.74) and 100 free (state-cut 55.52) sprints.

Doherty and Peak were joined by Erin McAuliffe and Tiffany Petzold on the winning 200 medley relay (1:54.69).

AHS also had wins from freshman Ellen Cody in the 500 free (5:18.97), and state tourney-qualifying diver Libby Fortier with 202.00 points.

Talented freshman Kristi Korsberg came through with a pair of second places in the 200 IM (2:15.36), where she challenged Harlow, and the 100 fly (state-cut 1:03.20).

Other runners-up included Cody (200 free, 2:02.36), Petzold (100 free, state-cut 57.23), Geary (500 free, state-cut 5:31.89) and McAuliffe whose 1:03.11 in the 100 back was a split second behind Harlow.

Annamarie Cashman also placed second in the one-meter diving with 193.20 points.

Second-place relays were the 200 free crew of Hilary Samuels, Cody, Forsberg and Petzold (1:48.59), along with the 400 free quartet of Courtney Hamer, McAuliffe, Korsberg and Cody (3:59.36).

Freshman Allison Alwan rounded off a sweep in the 500 with a third-place 5:46.30.

"The 500 really told the story of this meet," said Fitzgerald. "I was shocked that we swept them."

Additional thirds were taken by Petzold (100 breaststroke, 1:14.18), the 200 medley relay of Hilary Samuels, freshman Melissa Alois, Harlow and Geary (1:59.6) along with the 200 free relay of Lauren Grobicki, Tracy O'Malley, Caitlin Carpenter and Kerry Gaj.

Finishing fourth were freshmen Ginny Gibson (200 IM, 2:26.75) and Alois (100 breast, 1:15.15).

Fifths went to Rita Gillan (100 fly, 1:07.80), Geary (50 free, 27.15) and Samuels (100 back, 1:07.47).

Jen McDonald had a pair of sixth places in the 50 free (27.15) and one-meter diving (148.05 points), but she injured herself while arching her back to avoid hitting the board.

Gaj was sixth in the 200 free (2:14.61) and Hamer sixth in the very competitive 50 free (59.89).

Several of the locals big guns were given the meet off, but it didn't stop the five-time reigning MVC champs from placing first in 11 of the 12 events while sweeping the 50 free and diving.

There were no double winners, but producing state-cut times in victories were Tiffany Petzold (200 IM, 2:19.94), Caitlin Doherty (50 free, 26.06) and Candice Peak (500 free, 5:15.16).

Sectional-cut performances were contributed by first-place finishers Kristi Korsberg (100 free, 58.50), Jen Geary (100 backstroke, 1:07.44) and diver Jillian Bargar (168.65 points).

The 200 medley relay of Peak,

Melissa Alois, Korsberg and Tracy O'Malley touched first in 1:59.63.

The 200 free foursome of Caitlin Carpenter, Rita Gillan, O'Malley and Caitlin Doherty won (1:51.60), along with the 400 free contingent of Allison Alwan, Bridget Carroll, Hilary Samuels and Petzold (4:01.31).

Jenny Meltz picked up a victory in the 200 free (2:11.10) and Alexa Moccia in the 100 fly (1:09.34).

Completing sweeps were Tracy O'Malley (27.53) and Lauren Grobicki (28.16) in the 50 free, along with divers Michelle Guy (157.45 points) and Lauren Freedman.

Other runners-up for Andover were Samuels (500 free, state-cut 5:40.90) and Cassandra Valler (100 breaststroke, sectional-cut 1:17.50).

Second in the 400 free relay was the team of Gillan, Amanda Kaminski, Korsberg and McAuliffe (4:08.27).

Third-place relays consisted of Margaret Doherty, Valler, Allison Alwan and Courtney Hamer in the 200 medley (2:11.10), along with Alwan, Alois, Carroll and McAuliffe in the 200 free (1:57.53).

Also third were Amanda Kaminski (100 fly, 1:15.94), Margaret Doherty (100 free, 1:08.64) and Ginny Gibson (100 breast, 1:19.78).

Monica Chung was fourth in the 100 fly (1:19.94) and Jacque Booth fourth in the 500 free.

Earning fifths were sophomore Allison Ryans (200 free, 2:36.72), Hamer (100 back, 1:14.94) and Liz Cremin (100 breast, 1:25.31).

Danielle Perry placed sixth in the 200 free (2:53.35) and Amy Kasparian sixth in the 100 back (1:24.95).

Bargar was named Andover's Most Improved for the meet.

The Raiders stayed with Andover through the first few events, which had coach Fitzgerald thinking seriously about changing her lineup.

"They had a lot of strength in the early races – and if things had gotten any tighter there would have been some changes," said the AHS coach.

"Central continues to improve each year. They have some outstanding first-place swimmers but lack the second-tier people to be a really solid contender."

Andover placed first in eight events and had winning state-cut times from Candice Peak in the 200 IM (2:13.78), Caitlin Doherty in the 500 free (5:12.07) and Ellen Cody in the 100 free (57.85).

"Candice swam a totally off event for her, the IM, and still came up with our team's best time this season," said Fitzgerald.

"I was happy to see Caitlin Doherty hasn't lost her touch in the 500. It's only the fifth individual event she's competed in all season – because we've been so dominant she doesn't get as many opportunities to get state-cut times."

"But that's what being on a team is all about. Letting everyone get a chance."

"Even though no one was pushing her – she still came up with the fastest time in the state (by one second) this year," said Fitzgerald. "And she can go lower."

Other individual winners were Diana Harlow (100 butterfly, 1:00.40) and Erin McAuliffe (100 backstroke, 1:03.63).

The victorious 200 medley relay consisted of Harlow, Melissa Alois, Caitlin Doherty and Peak (1:56.29).

AHS ROUNDUP

GIRLS SWIM & DIVE

Touching first in the 200 free relay for the locals was the team of Jen Geary, Harlow, Jen McDonald and Peak (1:45.65).

Completing the sweep of the relays was the top 400 free squad of Caitlin Doherty, Tiffany Petzold, Hilary Samuels and Peak (3:51.41).

Second-place finishers for AHS included Petzold (200 free, state-cut 2:02.25), diver Ann Marie Cashman (186.20 points), Kristi Korsberg (500 free, state-cut 5:22.68) and Alois (100 breaststroke, 1:13.47).

Diver Michelle Guy was third with a sectional-cut 168.00 points.

The Lady Warriors were also third in all three relays with McAuliffe, Korsberg, Cody and Samuels on the 200 medley crew (2:02.00).

Tracy O'Malley, Lauren Grobicki, Courtney Hamer and Rita Gillan finished third in the 200 free relay (1:51.81), and the 400 free quartet included Amanda Kaminski, Liz Cremin, Caitlin Carpentier and Hamer (4:12.78).

Other thirds were garnered by Jen Geary (200 free, sectional-cut 2:07.15), Carpentier (50 free, 27.03), Jenny Meltz (100 free, 1:01.84), Allison Alwan (100 back, 1:08.37) and Alexa Moccia (100 breast, 1:18.50).

Earning fourths were Gillan (200 free, 2:14.31), Hamer (200 IM, sectional-cut 2:27.59), Samuels (50 free, 27.22), Ginny Gibson (100 fly, 1:11.78), Valler (500 free, 6:13.59) and Bridget Carroll (100 breast, 1:20.43).

Touching fifth were Kerry Gaj (100 fly, 1:10.75) and Monica Chung (100 back, 1:18.50), while diver Devin Geary was also fifth (118.00 points).

Jacque Booth was sixth in the 50 free (30.50) and Ellen DeLisio fifth in the 100 free, 1:05.43).

FIELD HOCKEY

The Andover High varsity field hockey team remained undefeated, and moved to the top of the Merrimack Valley Conference pack following its 1-0 victory over host Methuen.

The locals also whitewashed Dracut, 3-0, as coach Maureen Noone's team moved to 8-0-1 overall and 7-0-1 in MVC play.

At presstime AHS needed just one more point to qualify for the Division 1 North Tournament, and they may have gotten it yesterday when they launched the second half of the 18-game regular season by hosting Methuen for the rematch after Townsmen deadline.

Schedule

Andover next travels to Tewksbury tomorrow afternoon (3:30 p.m.).

Injuries/Illness

Junior forward Debbie Cheng injured the pinky finger on her right hand during warmups prior to the Dracut game.

The accident occurred when a stroked ball hit the ground hard and bounced up. The finger swelled immediately but fortunately was not broken.

Cheng returned to the lineup against Methuen, but less than five minutes into that game her unlucky streak continued when she was whacked in the knee and had to sit out the rest of the game.

Junior forward Casey Salois remains sidelined by injury.

Andover 1

Methuen 0

Junior forward Julie Marton, who stepped in for Debbie Cheng after her knee injury, scored the winning goal at 25:31 of the first half.

Right inner Toby Maltz assisted on the tally, which came off a corner as Marton tipped in a pass at the left post.

"We played a very smart game against the most skilled Methuen team I've seen," said coach Noone. "We had some good breaks and we beat them to the ball."

"Their midfield is awesome - but we were able to contain their two best players center-midfielder Natasha Nadar and forward Lisa Pak."

Jacqui Munro did the job on Nadar and Jamie Maltz kept Pak in check.

Elissa Slovin made eight saves in the AHS net for her fourth solo shutout, and the team's sixth whitewash in nine games.

Methuen netminder Rebecca Curry finished with 14 saves.

The Lady Warriors enjoyed a 15-8 advantage in shots-on-goal and an 8-1 edge in corners.

Coach Noone lauded the play of Slovin, Munro and converted defender Kerry Haugh, who moved to forward when Casey Salois went down with an injury.

"Kerry keeps surprising me with how well she has adjusted," said Noone.

The loss left Methuen at 6-1-1 in MVC play.

Dracut 0

Senior forward Jamie Maltz figured in all the scoring with a goal and two assists, as the host Lady Warriors overcame a strong performance by Dracut goaltender Danielle St. Hilaire who halted 16 of the 19 shots she faced.

Maltz converted off a corner at 16:48 of the first half, with the assist to Jacqui Munro, and the locals took that 1-0 lead into the half.

Left midfielder Maltz assisted on both insurance goals after the break, the first a tip-in by sophomore Toby Maltz at 14:05 and the second by junior forward Kara Flaherty off a corner just 46 seconds later (14:51).

Goaltender Elissa Slovin made four saves on the way to the shutout.

AHS held huge advantages in shots-on-goal (19-4) and corners (31-3).

"Jacqui Munro and Jamie Maltz controlled the midfield area," said coach Noone, "while backs Jessie Shields and Kate Delaney kept the ball from coming to our side of the 50 most of the game."

Noone also lauded the solid play of junior right wing Kerry Haugh.

GIRLS VOLLEYBALL

The Andover High girls varsity volleyball team moved within two victories of a Division 1 North Tournament berth after a 2-1 win over Dracut.

That victory was tempered somewhat by a pair of road losses, the 2-1 setback to Chelmsford and a subsequent 2-1 non-league loss to Reading on Tuesday night.

Those results left head coach George Sullivan's crew at 8-2 midway through the regular season, including 5-1 in MVC 1 matches.

The tourney berth will be the 17th in 19 years.

"We're playing very well as a team," said Sullivan prior to the back-to-back losses. "We don't have quite as much talent as some of our past teams. But the kids pull together and when we play with the proper intensity and toughness we can compete with anyone."

Schedule

Andover hosted Tewksbury yesterday, after Townsmen presstime, and Saturday night Central Catholic will be at the Dunn Gym (7:30 p.m.).

Andover 2

Dracut 1

In its final preparation for the showdown with Chelmsford, Andover pounded out a tough 30-18, 25-30, 30-24 triumph over visiting Dracut at the Dunn Gym.

The fourth 2-1 victory in the first eight matches also snapped a five-match win streak for MVC 2 power Dracut (7-2).

"We got on a nice roll in the first game," said coach Sullivan. "They faltered with the score 10-10 and we took over."

"We were cruising along in the second game, with a 10-point lead (22-12), when I made a few substitutions and we immediately went south."

"Our passing was off and we totally lost our momentum," said Sullivan. "I was kicking myself afterward for making the changes because we lost all continuity and rhythm."

"Dracut started believing they could beat us and came all the way back (18-3 run) for the win."

"We regrouped and dominated the third game," said Sullivan. "We only won by six points but were never in trouble. The lead was five or six all the way and it felt comfortable."

The locals finished 45-for-56 hitting (.800), with 14 kills, and 41-for-44 serving (.930) with 10 aces.

Samantha Kerivan had another solid all-around match with a team-high six kills, 15-for-18 hitting, three aces and 5-for-5 serving.

Chipping in with two kills each were Jen Merinder (6-for-8 hitting), Caitlin Jackson (5-for-6) and Erin Korte (6-for-8).

Andrea Kurkul finished 8-for-11 hitting, with one kill, and setter Kelly O'Dea was 3-for-3 with one kill.

Kurkul was the top server with 10-for-11 and four aces, while Merinder went 8-for-8 with one ace and O'Dea 7-for-8 with one ace.

Sophomore Allison Navarro contributed an ace, and 4-for-4 serving, while Kristen Pinksten was 7-for-8 serving.

Also playing strong all-around matches were Brittany Pierce, Sara Kelleher, Caitlin Toland and Ashley Ahern.

Leading the way for Dracut (6-2) were setter Nicole Rondeau (21 assists, seven service points, three kills, three digs), Victoria Monette (eight kills, six points, four blocks), Theresa Sing (seven points, three kills) and Ashley Conway (five kills).

The Andover JVs suffered their first loss as Dracut captured the prelim, 2-1, with game scores of 30-23, 15-30 and 15-10.

Cited for strong play for AHS were Karen McSweeney (hitting) and Kerry Hill (all-around).

The Andover freshmen remained undefeated with a 3-0 decision over Dracut, winning the games 30-7, 30-15 and 15-5.

Leading the way were Lauren Hughes (all-around), Meghan Thomann (hitting), Kim Crawford who served 15 straight points at one stretch and Jordy Shoemaker (hitting).

Chelmsford 2

Andover 1

After winning the first game, 30-26, Andover was never in contention as Chelmsford evened the match with a 30-17 victory.

The Lady Warriors held a 20-16 lead in the seasaw third game, before host Chelmsford went on a pivotal 12-4 run to grab a 28-24 advantage on the way to a 30-26 victory.

The Lions improved to 8-0 overall and 6-0 in MVC 1 play with the hard-fought triumph.

"They're big and they have tremendously strong hitters," said coach Sullivan. "They just kept banging away and pounding the ball back over the net."

"In the first game we fell behind early - but then woke up and played very well right through to the finish."

"We looked like an entirely different team in the second game. Our passing was way off and we were never in contention."

"In the third game we did too much scoreboard watching after we took the lead," said Sullivan. "We became too tentative and were not aggressive enough down the stretch."

Junior middle hitter Samantha Kerivan had a huge match for Andover with 14 kills, 22-for-30 hitting, one ace and 8-for-10 serving.

Andrea Kurkul went 14-for-16 hitting, with four kills, and 11-for-12 serving with a team-high three aces.

Caitlin Jackson was 10-for-12 hitting, with four kills, and Jen Merinder contributed 10-for-14 hitting, three kills, 7-for-8 serving and one ace.

Setter Kelly O'Dea had one kill and two aces, going 3-for-5 hitting and 12-for-12 serving.

Erin Korte added one kill and other strong servers were Allison Navarro (6-for-8, one ace) and Kristen Pinksten (6-for-6).

For Chelmsford, junior middle hitter Jenn Byrne was a monster at the net with 19 kills and junior middle hitter Molly Shanahan had 10 kills.

Other Lions' leaders were setter Maxine Barry, with 16 service points and 32 assists, Jenn O'Rourke (eight points) and Jenlyn Furey (eight points).

The once-beaten AHS junior varsity and undefeated freshman team both blanked Chelmsford, 2-0.

Leading the former to its 30-23, 30-16 sweep were Rebecca Damphousse (defense), Kasey O'Dea (setting), Kerry Hill (blocking) and Heather Arvidson (15 service aces).

The frosh had their 30-24, 30-19 romp sparked by Kim Crawford (setting), Elise Korte (setting), Meghan Thomann (hitting) and Lauren Hughes (hitting).

Reading 2

Andover 1

While Reading is a solid team, also sporting an 8-2 overall record, the Lady Warriors had handed the Rockets one of their losses, 2-0, back on Sept. 13 in the second match of the season.

This time, however, Reading turned the tables and prevailed by the closest of margins 30-27, 15-30, 30-28.

"I think we had a bit of a letdown from the Chelmsford match," said coach Sullivan, whose team enjoyed 7-3, 21-15 and 25-21 leads in the third game. "Our downfall was poor passing and bad serves at critical times."

"We just didn't play heads-up. We made some rookie mistakes - which shouldn't happen 10 matches into the season."

The locals dominated the second game and seemed in control of the third, until the Rockets closed out the win with a 9-3 run.

The final AHS team hitting and serving statistics were fine, 68-for-78 hitting (87 percent) with 27 kills and 70-for-80 serving (88 percent) with 11 aces.

But the passing was only 83-for-126 (67 percent). "It's the most defensive errors we've had by far," said Sullivan.

Samantha Kerivan continued her outstanding play with a team-high 12 kills, 20-for-25 hitting, three aces, 9-for-10 serving and a perfect 20-for-20 in passing/serve-receive.

Jen Merinder finished with seven kills and one ace, going 21-for-22 hitting and 12-for-14 serving.

Andrea Kurkul contributed four kills, 11-for-13 hitting and 13-for-16 serving.

Setter Kelly O'Dea went an errorless 5-for-5 hitting and 11-for-11 serving, with one kill and one ace. She was also 9-for-14 passing.

Caitlin Jackson was 6-for-7 hitting, with two kills, and Erin Korte 3-for-3 with one kill.

Also serving well were Player-of-the-Week Allison Navarro (11-for-14, three aces), Kristen Pinksten (9-for-10, one ace) and junior middle hitter Sara Kelleher (5-for-5, two aces).

The Andover JVs improved to 9-1 with a 2-0 sweep of Reading by game scores of 30-11 and 30-12.

GOLF

The Andover High golf team won three more lopsided Merrimack Valley Conference matches, hosting and defeating Tewksbury and Methuen by identical 17 1/2 to 2 1/2 margins on consecutive afternoons at Indian Ridge CC before trimming Dracut, 15 1/2 to 4 1/2, Tuesday afternoon at IRCC.

Those results boosted coach Ken Kwajewski's AHS linksmen to 8-2 overall, second place in the MVC, with both losses to undefeated reigning conference champ Central (10-0-1).

The most recent triumph over Dracut also qualified Andover for the Division 1 North Sectional Team and Individual Tournament on Monday, Oct. 18, at Beverly Golf & Tennis Club.

The top six teams there will advance to the State Division 1 Tournament the following Monday, Oct. 25, at Glen Ellen CC in Mills.

Schedule

Andover hosted Billerica yesterday, after Townsmen presstime, and plays the same team this afternoon at Country Club of Billerica.

The busy schedule continues with a make-up match tomorrow against Lowell at Mt. Pleasant GC (all at 3:30 p.m.).

Andover 17 1/2

Tewksbury 2 1/2

The Golden Warriors chalked up their sixth lopsided victory, scoring 17 or more points for the fourth time, in this romp at Indian Ridge CC.

"The scores were a little higher because we played the back nine at Indian Ridge and it was pretty windy," said coach Kwajewski.

Andover won seven of the eight individual matches and had solid scoring rounds from Jaclyn Sweeney (three-over 39), Colin Brennan (40), Brian Retelle (40) and Jon Yost (40).

No. 1 Brennan prevailed 1-up, No. 2 Retelle 2-up, No. 3 Sweeney 3-and-2, No. 4 Mike Shea 3-and-1, No. 5 Jon Derby 1-up, No. 6 Kevin Calabro 3-and-2, No. 7 Jon Yost 1-up.

Brennan and Retelle completed a five-point sweep for their group with a 2-up best ball triumph.

Also capturing best ball points were the Sweeney/Shea and Derby/Calabro tandems, both 3-and-2.

Yost and No. 8 Zach Gostanian halved their best ball with Tewksbury's Brendan Cotteau and Rob Trayah.

Cotteau was the only winner for TMHS, 1-up, as the Redmen fell to 6-4-1.

Andover 17 1/2

Methuen 2 1/2

No. 1 Colin Brennan won his match, 2-up, and shot a one-over 37 at IRCC to pace the locals.

Sophomore Kevin Calabro continued his fine play, taking medalist honors after shooting one-under 35 while also winning his match, 3-and-2.

Other AHS victors were Jon Yost (2-and-1), junior Eric Latsey (2-and-1), junior Luke Bruno (3-and-2) and sophomore James Gaffney (2-up).

Halving their matches were junior Mike Shea and senior Zach Gostanian.

The Golden Warriors also won three best ball points and halved the fourth.

Andover 15 1/2

Dracut 4 1/2

No. 1 Colin Brennan led the way once again, winning his match 4-and-3 and emerging as the overall medalist with an even-par 36.

He and playing partner, senior Capt. Brian Retelle, also combined to capture their best ball point, 4-and-3.

No. 3 Jaclyn Sweeney and No. 4 Zach Gostanian both halved their matches, while the pair earned the best ball point, 1-up.

Other winners included junior No. 5 Eric Latsey, 3-and-2, and junior No. 6 Luke Bruno, 1-up, while their best ball point was halved with Dracut's Josh West and Anthony Georgopoulos.

The final tandem swept all five points for the Golden Warriors, junior Jim Conway victorious by a 1-up margin and sophomore James Gaffney by 2-and-1. The pair also combined to take the best ball, 2-up.

CROSS COUNTRY

The Andover High girls and boys cross country teams produced similar results in their home opener, beating Lawrence High handily and losing to powerful Lowell in their Merrimack Valley Conference tri-meet lidlifter.

The results left the AHS boys at 1-3 overall and the girls at 2-3.

Schedule

The locals ran yesterday at home after Townsmen presstime, versus Methuen.

Andover/Lowell

Andover/Lawrence

The Andover boys rolled to a 15-50 shutout win over Lawrence and dropped a 17-44 decision to Lowell.

First across the line for the Golden Warriors was senior Capt. James Primes, fourth overall in 17 minutes, 30 seconds.

The locals placed two more runners in the top 10, senior Capt. Jimmy Muller eighth in 18:20 and junior Peter Brown ninth in 18:22.

Other Golden Warrior scorers were senior Oleg Seletsky, 11th in 18:33, and senior Garrett Raynor 14th in 19:13.

The overall race winner, who set a course record of 16:39 in the first meet run over the new 3.1 mile trail, was Lowell's Brian Gagnon.

Lowell improved to 4-0 with the tri-meet sweep as they also blanked the Lancers, 15-50.

The AHS girls also split, running to an 18-42 win over Lawrence and losing a 21-37 verdict to Lowell.

Junior Christy Nigh and sophomore Maggie Cosgrove ran very well for the Lady Warriors, placing just one second part in 22:06 and 22:07 for the 3.1-mile layout.

Junior Sarah Boxell also cracked the top 10 with a 10th-place finish in 23:32, while junior Kara Busta took 13th in 23:53 and senior Alice Yuan 15th in 23:58.

WARRIOR FOOTBALL

■ BIG SECOND HALF

On a third-down play, with Andover trailing 21-19, senior inside linebacker Nathan Weich busted through the Lancers' line and nailed quarterback Kevin Riley for a big loss.

On MC's final play of the game from the AHS 21, after the Golden Warriors took a 25-21 lead on Stevens' one-yard plunge, senior linebacker Mike Muccio came through with a huge knockdown of an over-the-middle pass by Riley inside the 10 yard line.

Maglio lauded the strong defensive play of junior cornerback Tommy White and senior strong safety John Fox, who participated in 14 and 17 tackles (solo and assisted) respectively. White also had an interception.

Also in double figures were Weich with 11 stops and Ghanchi 10.

Final stats

Matt Hennessy was the top rusher with 40 yards on nine carries, boosting his season total to 259 yards.

Andover held the edge in first downs, 14-12, yards passing, 197-75, and total yards from scrimmage, 293-226.

Malden Catholic (2-2) was tops in yards rushing, 151-96, and scrimmage plays, 61-49.

▲ Because state inspectors did not finish certifying that the carnival rides for Andover Youth Services' Westa Fiesta were safe, the event did not start last Friday, Oct. 1 as scheduled. Yellow police tape cordoned off the rides in the West Middle School parking lot. Saturday was a different story, however, as the photos below attest.

A colorful portrait of the past

Juliet Mofford finds original documents paint best pictures

By Rita Savard

ON SEPT. 7, 1692, residents of Andover gathered at the town's meeting house for a communitywide "touch test."

After a group of Salem girls passed their accusing hands over the community, 17 arrests were made on charges of witchcraft. A prominent clergy member had described the Andoverites as "the most horrid crew of witches that ever disgraced a New England town."

From witch trials to war heroes, the accounts of scoundrels and crusaders paint a colorful portrait of Andover's past. These historical vignettes are explored in the pages of Andover, Massachusetts: Historical Selections from Four Centuries, written by local author and historian Juliet Haines Mofford.

From the town's birth in the 17th century, to its first gruesome murder, to modern day marvels, Mofford's work unearths some little-known facts that helped shape Andover as it stands today.

The Andover Bookstore has already sold out of its copies, which debuted on shelves in August.

"I wanted to find stories that would interest others; stories that not everybody knows,"

Mofford said. "Piecing together history is a detective hunt but that's what makes it so exciting."

Mofford, who has a master's degree in art history from Tufts University, spent countless hours digging through old letters, books, historical documents and newspaper clippings from different sources around New England. Her research led to many new findings.

"There is so much information out there," added Mofford. "The best way to track the past is by going to the source and looking back to the original records."

Within the walls of Phillips

Academy, yellowed letters are safely housed, dating back to the 19th century.

Poring over the correspondence from years long ago, Mofford was taken back through time, to the summer of 1835.

Slavery negotiations had divided many. The Rev. Moser Stuart, professor of sacred literature at the Andover Theological Society warned his students not to attend an anti-slavery meeting.

Not all of his pupils listened, and beginning in July that year, a wave of violence erupted in Andover, spawning a movement

Your Dental Health

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D., F.A.G.D.

OF CONCERN TO DIABETICS

According to a recent review of current studies related to diabetes and oral health, periodontal (gum) disease tends to be far more common and severe in people with diabetes than in those without diabetes. This finding should draw much interest in light of the fact that there is an epidemic of people (including young people) with Type II diabetes in the United States. Diabetics are much more prone to all types of infections. The same also applies to gum disease, which is caused by bacteria lodged between the teeth and gums. Thus, diabetics are more prone to lose their teeth in the same way that they are prone to have more problems with their eyes, skin, feet, heart, and kidneys.

A very big threat to dental health, as well as to overall health, is gum disease. And as usual, the best way to deal with gum disease is to prevent it, with daily brushing and flossing and seeing your dentist on a regular basis for professional cleanings. If it's been awhile since you visited the dentist, now is the perfect time to call us at 978-475-2431. And as most dental insurance allows two cleanings per year, why not maximize your coverage and arrange an appointment soon at 296 Lowell Street (Rt. 133). We have easy access off Rt. 93.

P.S. To guard against gum disease and tooth loss, diabetics should schedule at least four dental exams a year.

Livingston Taylor concert to benefit Family Service

Family Service Inc. announced that Livingston Taylor will perform a concert to benefit Family Service at the Rogers Center for the Arts, Merrimack College, North Andover, next Saturday, Oct. 16, at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $22 per person in advance; $25 at the door; seniors, students and children $20. VIP tickets ($50) are available for prime seating and a pre-show reception at 6:30 p.m. with Taylor.

Organizers said, "Come enjoy Mr. Taylor's soft voice, acoustic guitar, humor, storytelling, and wit while supporting this Lawrence-based human service agency, Family Service."

Taylor is known not only for his famous family, as the younger brother of James Taylor, but also for his talent and charisma on stage, organizers said. With two Top-40 songs to his name, "Livingston Taylor has more than proven his own star quality," they said.

Beyond his ability to entertain, Taylor has given his time and talent to many charitable causes throughout his career.

Since 1854 Family Service has worked to meet the changing needs of individuals and families throughout Merrimack Valley communities.

Today Family Service continues to achieve its mission of strengthening individuals, nurturing families, and enhancing workplaces through its counseling center, numerous community programs, and its employee assistance program.

JULIET MOFFORD

for social reform. Using pages of text, old maps and pictorial records Mofford takes readers on a journey where they can witness the town's evolution. Voices of local writers and poets, including Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Anne Bradstreet and Harriet Beecher Stowe, echo a past moving progressively toward the future.

"Wherever I am, I have to gobble up the information," said Mofford, who has lived in six foreign countries and 11 different states. "Every place was home, every place was exciting and every place has its history." The former Boston newspaper travel writer admits to having an unconditional affection for Andover. After moving to town in 1967, Mofford has picked up and relocated throughout the years but she said she always finds herself returning here.

Mofford's book on Andover's history, published by the Merrimack Valley Preservation Group, is her eighth published work.

The history buff says the book was completed two years prior to publication, forged through her intense curiosity over Andover's underground railroad.

"I began looking into why so many radical abolitionists came to Andover," Mofford said.

While dusting off old documents to unlock the past, Mofford was able to collect a colorful variety of town tidbits.

Andover's first murder, George Washington's visit, industrial innovations, social reformers, Columbo yogurt and Jay Leno are just parts of Andover's past from four centuries that are discussed in the book.

"I hated history in school," admits Mofford. "It always seemed to be about wars, and signing treaties and going to war again. But later I discovered history is about people and is essential to enriching lives."

Chiropractic ... Before You Play!

Just about every sport provides some health benefits; however, not all activity offers the same advantages. As an example, jogging, skiing, rugby, wrestling, dance and the martial arts are excellent body conditioners.

However, from a chiropractic point of view, these activities may be strenuous on the joints, ligaments and the spinal column.

Jogging reduces tension, improves our ability to deliver oxygen to various parts of the body, and improves blood circulation. On the other hand, jogging can also jar the body, particularly the spine, and lead to subluxations (spinal misalignment).

While we do not discourage these forms of exercise, we do advise the "weekend sports warrior" to avoid over-exertion and to have a complete spinal examination before participating in any sports.

A spinal exam can determine if there are physical limitations present that may increase your risk of injury. Chiropractic corrects subluxations, conditions the muscles and promotes total healing of soft tissue. That's how chiropractic improves muscle balance and coordination, which ultimately, helps to prevent injury. Every sport - from fishing to football - involves body mechanics! Chiropractic restores and maintains proper dynamics of motion. And whether you're doing backyard cartwheels, riding bikes, or bowling - you rely on the proper dynamics of body movement to avoid injuries and to achieve "peak performance."

Strains, sprains and other common injuries are often caused by faulty joint mobility. A joint with restricted movement will not only be more easily sprained, but it will also place increased demands on other joints, rendering them more susceptible to injury.

Chiropractic care can help improve athletic performance by enhancing joint function and balancing muscle coordination. Your body is like a finely-tuned machine. The better your parts move together, the more efficient your performance will be.

The integration of your bony structures and supportive soft tissues keeps your body balanced! Chiropractic puts it together for your good health.

BRIEFS

Helping hurricane victims

Raytheon's Integrated Defense Systems' (IDS) employees raised nearly $10,000 in employee contributions for victims of Hurricane Charley. A check was presented recently to the American Red Cross at Raytheon's Integrated Air Defense Center (IADC) in Andover.

Prior to that, Raytheon had given a $25,000 donation to help the victims of the storm. This donation was in addition to a five-year $1 million contribution to the American Red Cross Disaster Relief Giving Program.

But Raytheon IDS employees wanted to do more. Victims of Hurricane Charley were still in desperate need of help. George Caras, business center manager at the IADC, said, "We knew we had to do something fast." Employees throughout IDS banded together and organized a donation drive. Volunteers collected $9,773 in employee contributions in less than a week.

The additional money raised by IDS employees will be used to help provide food, clothing, and shelter to the victims of Hurricane Charley, according to the company. "We run on the generosity of people," said Claudette Houle, director of development for the American Red Cross of Merrimack Valley.

DUNKIN' FRANCHISES

$925,000 in one day of golf

Franchise owners for Dunkin' Donuts stores in New England raised $925,000 for the Rising Stars Program of the Jimmy Fund recently from the 7th Annual Dunkin' Donuts George Mandell Memorial Golf Tournament and auction.

More than 220 golfers participated in the tournament and approximately 300 people attended the dinner/auction including Steve Goddess of Andover and Scott Goddess, Andover High graduate, both franchise owners in Newton; Frank Catalano of Andover, a franchise owner; Robert Lee, David Sorrie and Tom Adie, all Andover residents.

Tom Adie (left photo) and Steve and Scott Goddess (right photo) helped the Jimmy Fund as part of a Dunkin' Donuts golf tournament.

By Andrea Gregory

When Jake Brezner sees the commercial building at 19 Lupine Road, he gets excited. From his car seat, he cries out "Monkey's, monkey's," his mother said.

What 22-month-old Jake and other toddlers know is that Little Monkey's Jungle Gym is 900 square feet of cushioned ground where kids are given free rein. They can climb, crawl through tunnels, play in a ball pit, or perform using a puppet-show stage.

"I want this to be a child's time, encouraging their independence, their growth," said Erin Barlow, owner and director of Little Monkey's. "I really let the kids run the class."

Little Monkey's is designed to be an inside-playground heaven for children 6 and younger, she said. There is a minimal amount of structure provided for its hour-long classes. Each class has up to eight kids and is broken down by age.

Barlow said she will start activities, such as playing with a giant parachute or her box of musical instruments. But if the kids are not into the idea, she won't push it. She said she wants a one-room world where little minds can grow, develop and seek out their own interests.

"She doesn't force you to sit in a circle and sing if the kids want to explore," said Nanci Miragliotta,

MONKEY BUSINESS

New play center for preschoolers

who has been bringing her 19-month-old son, Benjamin, to Little Monkey's almost as long as it has been open — about two weeks. "There is nowhere else like it to go in Andover."

That's what Barlow thought, too. She had looked for the perfect play setting for her 2-year-old son, Max, and did not have any luck, she said. It was important to her that the play area be clean and safe, kid-friendly and colorful.

Last week, Barlow looked around the room of primary colors and climbing structures. She watched Jake and Benjamin bang away on toy drums, with their mothers smiling and chatting close by. So far, Barlow thinks she has achieved her goal.

Barlow said she was originally going to offer more structure, but after watching what fascinates each child individually, she decided not to push mandatory group activities.

But Barlow will not just stand back and observe. She can be found shoeless and playing on the ground with the rest of the group. A parent comes to each session. The climbing area is big enough and sturdy enough for the occasional adult to climb, but the room is also small and open enough for parental supervision on the sidelines.

"The fact that they can let their kids go play and not worry, they destress," said Barlow.

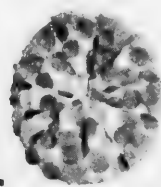

Barlow said she decided to call her new business Little Monkey's because she sees it as a loving name for a young child who is eager to climb, bounce, slide and roll around, exploring the world for the first time.

"You are a little monkey, huh?" said Judy Brezner, Jake's mom, waiting for him at the bottom of the slide.

Classes meet once per week, but there are additional open play times every day. Enrolling in a class allows a child to attend open play times at no additional charge. For a limited time there is a special rate of $140 for the first 12 weeks. The hours of operation range from 9:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., with specific times set for various age groups.

There will be an open house on Oct. 11. To reserve a time to tour and test out the facility call 978-470-3GYM.

years of spinning pizzas

DiCesare family serves up success at Ballardvale shop

By Judy Wakefield

"How's your cat?" Darlene DiCesare asks a Spinners Pizza customer. This is the man whose cat loves riding in the car, she reminds her son, Eric DiCesare.

The customer smiles and says he has a five-hour business drive coming up later that day — and the cat will be going with him.

"That's how it is here," Darlene DiCesare says. "It's like Cheers. We know everyone's name and just love the people who come here. They're loyal customers and many of them we know because they have been coming for the past 10 years."

Ten is the big number at Spinners this week as Sunday, Oct. 10 — or 10/10 — marks a milestone for Darlene and Eric DiCesare. They are celebrating their 10th anniversary of owning Spinners Pizza, a popular eatery just steps from the Ballardvale train station.

It's been a decade of little change for the DiCesares, as they say customers are local, loyal and like things the way they are. At the Italian restaurant, pizza reigns as the most popular item. But Darlene DiCesare's homemade soups and meatballs also have their share of the market. She describes her non-pizza menu items, including calzones, pasta dinners and fish on Fridays, as "never frozen."

"The real Italians know when it's frozen and we don't do that," said Darlene DiCesare, who lives in Salem, N.H. "It's real Italian here."

Last year, the restaurant added breakfast sandwiches to the menu. With a 6 a.m. opening six days a week, the sandwiches have caught on. But it's a pizza attitude on Sundays as the restaurant doesn't open until noon.

Eric DiCesare, who lives in Malden, is the pizza maker who's got the craft of hand-tossing dough down to a T. "I like my job. I really like what I do," he said. "It's just a great clientele."

His sister, Alexandria DiCesare, works at the restaurant and Darlene's mother also pitches in. "We're very much a family business," said Darlene DiCesare, who is known in Ballardvale for her decorating passion.

"I'm here so much that I need to put up some things for the different seasons," she explained.

An artificial Christmas tree is currently decorated in the corner of the restaurant with pumpkin decorations, a witch tree-topper and some orange garland.

It's an all-in-the-family business at Spinners in Ballardvale as owners Eric DiCesare (left) and his mom, Darlene DiCesare (right), get ready for the pizza crowd. In between is Alexandria DiCesare, Eric's sister and Darlene's daughter, who also works there.
